Summary

Advance Auto continues to expand and optimize footprint by opening stores, widening online presence and collaborating. It is laser-focused on improving retail traffic to accelerate growth. Further, it is investing in its supply chain capabilities which is expected to accelerate growth. The firm also continues to make progress on its DIY omnichannel e-commerce platform. However, increasing costs will likely dent margins if it is not able to pass the price increases to customers. The coronavirus pandemic has crippled the auto industry, and will lead to decline in sales and production, hurting the firm. Moreover, the fact that consumers are opting for new vehicle purchases instead of maintaining old ones can adversely affect the demand of the company. Hence, investors are recommended to wait for a better entry point.

Overview

Advance Auto Parts, Inc. operates in the U.S. automotive aftermarket industry and is primarily engaged in selling replacement parts (excluding tires), accessories, batteries and maintenance items for domestic and imported cars, vans, sport utility vehicles, light and heavy-duty trucks. It is a leading automotive parts provider in North America, serving the "do-it-yourself" or "DIY", and "do-it-for-me" or "DIFM" (or Commercial) customers.

Advance Auto Parts operates through a single reportable segment comprising stores and distribution branch operations.

The company was founded in 1929 as Advance Stores Company. In the 1980s, it started selling automotive parts and accessories to DIY customers. The Professional delivery program was initiated in 1996. The company significantly increased sales to Professional customers since 2000.

The company operates under four store names:

Advance Auto Parts – These stores focus on both Commercial and DIY customers. As of Dec 28, 2019, 4,313 stores, which are located in freestanding buildings, focus on Professional and DIY customers

Carquest – These stores focus on Commercial customers, but also serve DIY customers. As of Dec 28, 2019, 384 stores put primary focus on Professional customers but also served DIY customers.

Worldpac – These branches principally serve Commercial customers, utilizing an efficient and sophisticated delivery process. As of Dec 28, 2019, 160 branches principally served Professional customers.

Autopart International – These stores primarily operate in the Northeastern, Mid-Atlantic and Southeastern regions of the United States. The stores specialize in imported aftermarket and private-label branded auto parts, and focus on Commercial customers. As of Dec 28, 2019, 180 stores operate primarily in the Northeastern and Mid-Atlantic regions of the United States, with a focus on Professional customers.

As of Dec 28, 2019, the company operated a total of 5,037 stores and branches, compared to 5,109 stores and branches in 2018.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Advance Auto is undertaking several initiatives to strengthen and streamline its supply chain to meet the evolving need of customers. Except for supply chain initiatives, it is also looking into store transformation and inventory positioning. Further, the company is laser-focused on improving retail traffic to accelerate growth. These initiatives are likely to help the company unlock its long-term margin expansion.
- ▲ The company continues to expand and optimise its footprint by opening new stores, widening online presence and strategic collaborations. In addition to driving growth across professional business, the firm continues to make progress on its DIY omnichannel e-commerce platform. It acquired the DieHard brand from Transformco in December, 2019, which will allow the company to sell DieHard batteries and extend the brand into other automotive and vehicular categories. As a part of the company's five-year strategic plan, it has constructed a productivity pipeline for the future, which will include the removal of at least $500 million of unnecessary costs over the next five years.
- ▲ Advance Auto Parts launched a new Speed Perks 2.0 program that provides its employees with data insights. This program led to 45% growth in the number of Speed Perks transactions along with new member sign-ups increasing around 80%. With regard to margins, the company is investing in its supply chain capabilities. The cross-banner replenishment initiative is likely to be completed by mid-2021 and deliver significant cost savings and product availability.

Advance Auto Parts remains focused on expanding its footprint and strengthening its supply chain to access customers. Also, it expects to acquire customers through its online store.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ The coronavirus pandemic has crippled the auto industry, and will lead to decline in sales and production, hurting the automotive parts seller. Advance Auto withdrew the 2020 guidance and suspended its share buyback program in response to disruptions to the company's supply chain due to the pandemic-led crisis. The pandemic has affected the firm's customers worldwide, leading to temporary plant closures, change in processes and cut in production levels, in line with the nationwide campaign addressing the crisis. Weak consumer sentiment amid the pandemic is likely to hurt its sales and earnings in the near future.
- ▼ Price competition remains a concern for Advance Auto Parts, as it competes with national and regional automotive retailers such as AutoZone, O'Reilly Automotive, Pep Boys and CSK Auto Corporation. It is facing incursion from online competition, shifting driving habits and increasing part quality/complexity. The improvement in the quality of new vehicles leads to reduced need for maintenance and repair of parts. This, in turn, impedes demand in the automotive maintenance market. In addition, the fact that consumers are opting for new vehicle purchases instead of maintaining old ones can adversely affect the demand for Advance Auto Parts' products.
- ▼ Increasing costs will dent margins if the company is not able to pass the price increases to customers. Moreover, the company has huge capital expenditure. Funding of its plans — including acquisition, store openings and investments to develop supply chain — are leading to increased expenses.

Increasing costs will dent margins if the company is not able to pass the price increases to customers.

Last Earnings Report

Advance Auto Parts' Q4 Earnings Miss Estimates, Up Y/Y

Total long-term debt was $747 million as of Dec 28, 2019, compared with $1.05 billion as of Dec 29, 2018. The debt-to-capital ratio stands at 17.29%, as of Dec 28, 2019.

Operating cash flow was $867 million as of Dec 28, 2019, up from the prior-year quarter's $811 million.

Dividend & Share Repurchase

On Feb 12, Advance Auto Parts' board approved a cash dividend of 25 cents per share to be paid on Apr 3, to all common shareholders of record as of Mar 20, 2020.

The company also authorized $700 million as an addition to the existing $400-million share-repurchase program in fourth-quarter 2019. Under this program, the company repurchased 3.4 million shares of its common stock, at an aggregate amount of $487.4 million, for an average price of $144.23 per share. At the end of the fourth quarter, the company had $890.8 million remaining under the share-repurchase program.

Store Update

As of Dec 28, 2019, the company operated 4,877 stores and 160 Worldpac branches in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. It also serves 1,253 independently-owned Carquest branded stores across these locations in addition to Mexico, the Bahamas, Turks and Caicos and British Virgin Islands.

Guidance

For full-year 2020, the company anticipates consolidated revenues of $9,880-$10,100 million. Further, adjusted operating income margin is estimated in the band of 8.4-8.7% and capital expenditure is projected at $275-$325 million.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	C
Growth Score	A
Momentum Score	F
VGM Score	B

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
