Summary

Altra Industrial is poised to benefit from a solid product portfolio, including various well-recognized brands. Also, its cross-selling programs, supply-chain initiatives, working capital improvement program and acquisitions are likely to be beneficial. Moreover, the company believes that strong free cash flow generation will help it pay down debts. In addition, it expects to generate free cash flow of $1 billion by 2023-end. However, in the past three months, Altra Industrial's shares have underperformed the industry. For 2020, the company expects difficult end-market conditions to affect its performance, especially in the first half. It noted that first-quarter sales will likely decline sequentially due to the adverse impacts of supply chain and manufacturing disturbances caused by the outbreak of coronavirus in China.

Overview

Altra Industrial Motion Corp., incorporated in 2004, is currently headquartered in Braintree, MA. The company is one of the leading manufacturers and distributors of a diversified range of mechanical power transmission or MPT components and motion control products. Its product line includes clutches & brakes, couplings, gears, motion control products, and others. It has production facilities in 16 countries.

The company caters to customers in the energy, general industrial, material handling, food processing, mining, industrial automation, transportation, turf & garden, and other industries.

In the fourth quarter of 2018, Altra Industrial completed the combination of its business operations with four companies of the Automation and Specialty business of Fortive Corporation. Effective from the fourth quarter, the company started reporting revenues under the following heads/segments — Automation & Specialty, and Power Transmission Technologies. The segments are briefly discussed below.

- Power Transmission Technologies (PTT): This segment primarily offers electromagnetic clutches & brakes; couplings, clutches & brakes; and gearings. While electromagnetic clutches & brakes are mainly used in material handling, agricultural machinery, turf & garden, and motion control markets, couplings, clutches & brakes are used in energy and heavy industrial markets. Gearings are used in industrial markets.
- Automation & Specialty (A&S): The segment includes the results of the majority of product brands, including Kollmorgen, Thomson, Portescap and Jacobs Vehicle Systems, acquired as part of the business collaboration with Fortive.

It is worth mentioning that Kollmorgen-branded products are mainly used in aerospace and defense, medical, material handling, packaging, factory automation, semiconductor, robotics, printing and other markets. Portescap-branded products are used in general industrial, medical and industrial power tool markets while Thomson products are used in material handling, medical, food processing, factory automation, mobile off-highway and others. In addition, Jacobs Vehicle Systems-branded products are used in heavy-duty Class 8 trucks.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Altra Industrial is poised to benefit from a solid product portfolio, including various well-recognized brands. Also, the company has production facilities in 16 countries. Over the long term, it believes that pricing actions, cross-selling programs, supply-chain initiatives, technological expertise, e-commerce capabilities and working capital improvement program will be beneficial.
- ▲ Acquisition remains Altra Industrial's preferred mode for enhancing profitability. In October 2018, the company completed the combination of its operations with four companies of the Automation and Specialty business of Fortive. The combined business, a global leader in motion control and power transmission, has greater access to end markets, solid product offering for customers and better technological expertise. The collaboration yielded synergies of $15 million in 2019, while the same is anticipated to amount to $52 million by 2022. Also, the company seems to be working hard for deleveraging its balance sheet. It believes that strong free cash flow generation will help it pay down debts. In 2019, it repaid long-term debt of $130 million. For 2020, the company expects to repay debt of $150 million. Exiting 2019, the company's net debt/adjusted EBITDA ratio was 3.8, while it anticipates achieving 3.5-3.7 in 2020.
- ▲ At its Investor Day 2019, Altra Industrial provided long-term financial targets. It anticipates adjusted earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) margin to improve from 20.3% in 2017 to 24.6% in 2022. The improvement of 425 basis points is anticipated to be driven by positive impacts of volume/leverage mix and cost improvement mainly based on collaborations with Fortive's businesses. Also, it predicts generating free cash flow of $1 billion by 2023-end.

Initiatives, solid product portfolio, healthy end markets and business collaboration with Fortive are benefiting Altra Industrial.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ Over the past three months, Altra Industrial's shares have decreased 44.5% compared with the industry's decline of 24.7%. In fourth-quarter 2019, the company's earnings lagged the Zacks Consensus Estimate by 1.5%. Sales in the quarter declined 5.8% year over year due to weakness in several end markets and forex woes. For 2020, the company expects sales of $1,720-$1,770 million, suggesting a decline from $1.83 billion reported in 2019. Non-GAAP earnings are expected to be $2.40-$2.60 per share, whereas it reported $2.86 in 2019. Also, in the past 60 days, the company's earnings estimates have been lowered by 17.5% for 2020 and by 5% for 2021.
- ▼ Altra Industrial operates in a number of end-markets, including construction, general industrial, mining, wind, water infrastructure and aerospace. Though end-market diversification proves to be a boon, a downturn in one or more of these markets might adversely impact the company's financials. Its transportation, metals, factory automation & specialty machinery, distribution, turf & garden, and agriculture markets reported weak results in the fourth quarter. The company believes that difficult end-market conditions will affect its performance in 2020, especially in the first half. Notably, it believes that the Class 8 truck business will be weak in 2020, with sales down $40 million or 20% year over year. The distribution market will likely be weak in the first half.
- ▼ Altra Industrial believes that its performance is exposed to headwinds arising from uncertainties related to the U.S.-China trade war, impacts of tariffs and the recent outbreak of coronavirus. The company predicts a sequential decline in first-quarter sales due to adverse impacts of supply chain and manufacturing disturbances caused by the virus. Earlier, the company predicted sequential improvement in first-quarter sales. For 2020, it believes that the impact of the virus will be $10-$50 million. In addition, with operations across multiple continents, the company's performance is exposed to the adverse impacts of macroeconomic cycles in the United States and international markets. Given its international presence, the company also faces unfavorable foreign currency movements, impacting bottom-line growth. In the fourth quarter of 2019, forex woes had an adverse 1% impact on sales. The company believes that unfavorable movements in foreign currencies will continue to be a headwind in 2020.

Softness in end markets, issues-related to the coronavirus outbreak in China and headwinds from unfavorable movements in foreign currencies might prove detrimental to Altra Industrial, going forward.

Outlook

Altra Industrial plans to continue working on lowering debts and reducing costs. Also, it anticipates realizing $52 million in synergies from the collaboration with Fortive's Automation and Specialty business by the fourth year of the completion of the transaction.

It expects sales of $1,720-$1,770 million for the year, down from $1.83 billion in 2019. Unfavorable movements in foreign currencies and coronavirus-related woes (to the tune of $10-$50 million) are predicted to adversely impact results.

Non-GAAP earnings are expected to be $2.40-$2.60 per share and non-GAAP adjusted EBITDA is anticipated to be $340-$360 million. The tax rate is anticipated to be 22-24%. Capital spending is expected to be $45-$50 million.
