Summary

Shares of Bed Bath & Beyond have lagged the industry in the past three months. The stock remains under pressure due to the ongoing global COVID-19 crisis. Anticipating uncertain impacts from the coronavirus outbreak, management extended store closures, furloughed staff, lowered expenses, suspended share repurchase plans and store remodeling efforts and withheld fiscal 2020 view. Further, soft comparable sales along with dismal gross margin and higher costs hurt the company's top and bottom lines in fourth-quarter fiscal 2019. However, its transformation initiatives are well underway to deliver growth in the long term. It is also likely to reduce annual SG&A expenses through 500 job cuts under its restructuring plan. It is poised to bolster digital sales through investments in online and omni-channel capabilities.

Reasons To Buy:

▲ Transformation Plan Drives Optimism: Bed Bath & Beyond remains well on track with its transformation plan, positioning it well for success in a dynamic retail landscape. Management has set four major near-term priorities – stabilize and boost top-line growth; reset the cost structure; review and optimize its asset base with its portfolio of retail banners as well as refine the organization structure. It expects to boost revenue growth by focusing on portfolio strategy alignment including product assortment, customer engagement, learnings from Next Generation Lab stores and expanded online experience. Margins are likely to improve through changes in assortment mix to increase sales, supply chain, and modifications in pricing and coupon strategy. Improvements in store labor model, marketing initiatives and lower occupancy expenses are expected to optimize SG&A. Furthermore, the company will focus on spending in human capital, data, process improvements, repositioning its flagship brand and reinforcing the global sourcing capabilities.

Bed Bath & Beyond is on track with its Transformation plan. As a result, the company plans to boost the top line, reset the cost structure, optimize its asset base and refine the organization base.

As part of these efforts, the company has been reviewing the retail space and owned real estate portfolio to optimize asset base. It has completed the sale-leaseback transaction with an affiliate of Oak Street Real Estate Capital, garnering net proceeds of more than $250 million. The deal included roughly 2.1 million square feet of commercial space with a distribution facility, corporate office in New Jersey and retail outlets.

▲ Restructuring Program: As part of its efforts to rebuild its business foundation and create a durable business model, Bed Bath & Beyond announced a strategic restructuring program. The program comprises efforts to reorganize and simplify field operations, reduce management positions and outsource several functions. Consequently, the company revealed plans to cut nearly 500 positions to reduce workforce. This is a key step in its efforts to generate significant cost savings in the long term. The company expects this action to result in nearly $85 million of reduction in annual SG&A expenses. This will in turn result in strategic realignment for improved focus on core business and initiatives to enhance customer experience, boost sales and drive long term success. The company incurred $41 million of severance cost related to the restructuring plan in fourth-quarter fiscal 2019.

▲ Store-Rationalization Efforts to Drive Sales: Bed Bath & Beyond is in the process of strategically expanding its store count apart from increasing productivity of existing stores by adjusting the breadth and depth of its merchandise offerings to suit customer preferences. In fiscal fourth quarter, Bed Bath & Beyond inaugurated two buybuy BABY stores. Simultaneously, it closed 26 outlets, including five namesake stores, 17 Cost Plus World Market stores, and two buybuy BABY and Harmon Face Values stores each. In the long run, it expects to operate more than 1,300 Bed Bath & Beyond stores across the United States and Canada, and also plans to expand other concepts from coast to coast. Moreover, the company remains focused on expanding, renovating and relocating stores to adapt to the changing market conditions. Additionally, the Next Generation Lab stores, where it is testing various experiences and visual merchandising, are expected to boost customer experience, and in turn, drive sales and profitability.

▲ Impressive Digital Growth Bodes Well: After reporting dismal numbers for a while, Bed Bath & Beyond's sales in the digital platform got back on track in the fiscal fourth quarter, with digital sales improving 16%. Further, the company recorded sales growth in the mobile platform to the tune of 30% for both Bed Bath & Beyond and buybuy BABY during the fiscal fourth quarter. Consequently, orders taken through the mobile app increased more than 75%. Notably, the company witnessed sturdy digital sales in March driven by increased online shopping due to the COVID-19 situation. Also, digital sales gained traction surging more than 90% in the first 15 days of April. Amid the crisis, the company's four e-commerce fulfillment centers remain operational. In a bid to expedite the delivery process and assign orders locally, it is on track to convert roughly 25% of Bed Bath & Beyond and buybuy BABY stores in the United States and Canada into regional fulfillment centers. It also launched a curbside pickup facility on Apr 1 at buybuy BABY stores and is working toward introducing this facility at Harmon stores. Besides, the Buy Online Pick Up In Store (BOPIS) option will be rolled out at its BABY stores.

Once the situation normalizes and the stores reopen, both BOPIS and curbside pickup services will be rolled out across all stores. In this context, management remains focused on prioritizing $250 million of capital expenditure for investments in digital space and BOPIS in fiscal 2020 and beyond.

Reasons To Sell:

▼ Impacts of COVID-19 Hurt Stock: Shares of Bed Bath & Beyond have slumped 69.1% in the past three months compared with the industry's decline of 25.8%. The company is facing business disruptions, given the uncertainty related to the COVID-19 outbreak. All of the company's retail banners, except for buybuy BABY and Harmon Face Values stores, in the United States and Canada are closed since Mar 23, until at least May 2. Moreover, it is cutting on costs by furloughing the majority of employees in stores and some corporate associates until up to May 2. Further, it is temporarily reducing salaries for its executive team by 30%, while the chairman of the board and independent directors will give up 30% of their quarterly cash compensations.

Bed Bath & Beyond has extended store closures, furloughed staff, reduced costs, deferred capital expenditure and suspended share repurchase plans as a result of uncertain COVID-19 impacts.

Among other actions, it has drawn down the remaining $236 million in its revolving credit facility. It is also reducing expenses, including lowering inventory levels and extending payment terms for goods and services. Further, the company is deferring $150 million of planned non-essential capital expenditure and prioritizing $250 million of capital expenditure for investments in digital and Buy Online Pick Up In Store. It has also postponed its share repurchases, dividends and debt reduction until further notice. Moreover, it has suspended store remodeling plans and anticipates adverse impacts on its first-quarter and fiscal 2020 results. Currently, it refrained from providing any guidance for fiscal 2020.

▼ Soft Q4 Earnings & Sales: Despite reporting earnings and sales beat in the fiscal fourth quarter, Bed Bath & Beyond's bottom line plummeted 86.3% from $1.20 per share in the year-ago quarter. Results were hurt by soft store traffic, higher promotions and headwinds related to inventory management during the holiday season. Increased clearance activities also dented the quarterly results. Moreover, net sales fell 6.1% driven by comps decline.

▼ Weak Comps Trend: Bed Bath & Beyond has been witnessing soft comparable sales (comps) for a while due to decline in the number of store transactions, which continued in the fiscal fourth quarter. Notably, comps declined 5.6% in the fiscal fourth quarter due to a high-single-digit decline in transactions, somewhat offset by a low-single-digit increase in the average transaction amount. Also, soft store traffic, higher promotions and headwinds related to inventory management during the holiday season dented comps to some extent. The company's comps also include the impacts of shift of the Cyber Monday holiday week into the fourth quarter of fiscal 2019 compared with its occurrence in the third quarter of fiscal 2018. Adjusting for this shift in both periods, comps fell 11% in the reported quarter. The decline resulted from a loss of 13.6% in store sales, somewhat offset by a rise of 1.1% in digital sales.

▼ Dismal Margins & High Costs: Gross margin for the fiscal fourth quarter decreased 210 basis points (bps) owing to lower merchandise margin due to increased promotions. Further, adjusted SG&A, as a percentage of net sales, rose 250 bps, mainly owing to 100 bps of consulting expenses related to the ongoing transformation initiatives, review of assets and rise in advertising costs. Further, the company incurred an operating loss of $81.2 million as compared to $296.7 million in the year-ago quarter.

Bed Bath & Beyond Q4 Earnings & Sales Beat Estimates

That said, the company is progressing well with its inventory reduction program and has already reduced half of its inventory. Moreover, it expects to lower the remaining inventory by fiscal 2020.

Additionally, the company is facing business disruptions, given the uncertainty related to the COVID-19 outbreak. SG&A expenses advanced 10% to $1,027 million, driven by gains from the company's cost structure and optimization efforts. As a percentage of net sales, adjusted SG&A increased 250 bps to 30.7%, mainly owing to 100 bps of consulting expenses related to the ongoing transformation initiatives, review of assets and rise in advertising costs.

Further, the company incurred an operating loss of $81.2 million as compared to $296.7 million in the year-ago quarter.

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	B
Growth Score	C
Momentum Score	F
VGM Score	C

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
