Summary

Comcast is benefiting from solid high-speed Internet customer wins. The company's strategy to provide high-speed Internet at an affordable price plays a pivotal role in improving customer experience. Moreover, its Internet business is expected to gain traction from strong demand as more and more people stay at home due to the coronavirus outbreak. Increased media consumption and work-from-home wave bode well for Comcast. Growing popularity of Xfinity and Flex products is also a major catalyst. Additionally, Sky's content strength is expected to drive the subscriber base in Europe. However, Comcast continues to lose video subscribers due to cord cutting. Theme Parks remain closed on account of the coronavirus spread. Higher debt level is also a key concern. Notably, its shares have underperformed the industry in the past year.

Overview

Based in Philadelphia, PA, Comcast Corporation is a global media and technology company with three primary businesses: Comcast Cable, NBCUniversal and Sky.

Comcast reported revenues of $108.94 billion in 2019. The company reports in three revenue generating segments:

Cable Communications (53.3% of total revenues): It consists of the operations of Comcast Cable. This segment offers high-speed Internet, video, voice, and security and automation services in the United States individually and as bundled services at a discounted rate over its cable distribution system to residential and business customers.

Cable Communications generates revenues primarily from residential and business customers that subscribe to Comcast's cable services and from the sale of advertising. The company also offers a wireless phone service (Xfinity Mobile brand) as a component of its bundled services, which is reported in Corporate and Other.

NBC Universal Segment (31.2% of total revenues): This segment comprises four reportable segments – Cable Networks, Broadcast Television, Filmed Entertainment and Theme Parks.

Cable Networks consists primarily of Comcast's national cable networks. Broadcast Television comprises NBC and Telemundo broadcast networks.

Filmed Entertainment consists primarily of the operations of Universal Pictures. Films are also produced under the Illumination, DreamWorks Animation and Focus Features brands.

Comcast has theme parks in Orlando, Florida; Hollywood, California; and Osaka, Japan.

Sky (17.6% of total revenues): Acquired in 2018, Sky includes a direct-to-consumer business that provides video, high-speed Internet, voice and wireless phone services, and a content business. The business, one of Europe's leading entertainment companies, also operates the Sky News broadcast network and Sky Sports networks. Sky has 23.99 million customers.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Comcast offers 1 Gbps high-speed Internet services across its network, which supports high-bandwidth applications, be it gaming and/or Internet TV. Upgrading to DOCSIS 3.1 has enabled the company to compete against AT&T's Fiber-to-the-Home (FTTH) program. Moreover, strong adoption of xFi is a key catalyst. For 2019, Comcast added 1.4 million net broadband customers with increasing ARPU and solid margins. Further, the Flex is allowing broadband customers to enjoy the most popular streaming apps on X1 platform, without requiring a linear content subscription. These factors are expected to boost growth prospects for the Cable Communications segment.
- ▲ In an attempt to stay competitive, Comcast has ventured into the U.S. wireless industry with the nationwide rollout of its wireless services under the Xfinity Mobile brand. Based on a Mobile Virtual Network Operator (MVNO) agreement with Verizon, Xfinity Mobile uses Verizon's 4G LTE wireless network. Xfinity Mobile is expected to be the nation's first wireless service combining the nation's largest and most reliable 4G LTE network with 19 million Xfinity Wi-Fi hotspots to deliver a great wireless experience, which is cost effective. Comcast claims that customers can save up to 30% on their monthly wireless bills with Xfinity Mobile service.
- ▲ Sky's acquisition helps Comcast to expand in Europe and diversifies its top-line source as the North-American pay-TV market saturates. Sky reaches almost 24 million customers and its streaming service Now TV has almost 2 million users. Notably, Sky added 394K customer relationships in 2019, driven by popular sports and entertainment offerings. Notably, Sky has the rights to show 128 English Premier League soccer matches for three seasons, from 2019 to 2020. Its original content Chernobyl has been a major hit and received 10 Emmy awards. The launch of Sky Studio and Comcast's plans to double investment in local regional content in Europe are expected to drive Sky's top line and expand user base in the long haul.
- ▲ Comcast has gained the rights to offer online TV services nationwide from several unnamed cable networks. The cable MSO reportedly got the rights using the 'most favored nation' clauses in its contracts. This allows Comcast to sell its video services for the first time outside its regional territories to new cities like New York and Los Angeles. Moreover, the company is set to launch Peacock, its streaming platform, in April 2020. It is focused on expanding its streaming content portfolio and is pulling in shows like The Office from Netflix. Comcast is leveraging Sky's Now TV model to launch the Peacock service. Despite stiff competition in the streaming space, Comcast is well poised to grow, owing to its vast library of IP and new productions.
- ▲ Theme Parks also present significant growth opportunities for Comcast. The company has theme parks in Orlando, Hollywood, and Osaka, Japan. It is also set to open new parks — Nintendo World in Japan in 2020 and Universal Beijing in 2021.

Roll-out of the DOCSIS 3.1 technology and Xfinity Mobile, the Sky acquisition, launch of Xfinity Flex and NBCUniversal's upcoming streaming service are key catalysts.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ The internal dynamics of the U.S. pay-TV industry has been gradually shifting from cable TV operators to large telecom operators and low-cost over-the-top service providers. Online video streaming service providers such as Netflix, Hulu.com, YouTube etc., have become a severe threat to cable TV operators because of their extremely cheap source of TV programming and solid content. Moreover, the U.S. pay-TV industry is affected by the ongoing massive consolidation between telecom and cable-TV operators. The multi-channel video market in the U.S. is almost saturated. This doesn't bode well for Comcast, as cord cutting and intensifying competition has severely hurt its business.
- ▼ The industry-wide trend of declining profitability of residential video services due to increasing programming costs and retransmission fees has made it difficult for traditional companies like Comcast to survive. Moreover, residential voice services have witnessed significant decline in revenues due to increasing usage of wireless voice services. This also doesn't bode well for the company.
- ▼ We view Comcast's high debt level as a potential hazard. The Sky acquisition further increases indebtedness, which adds to the risk of investing in the company. As of Dec 31, 2019, the company had a total debt was $102.22 billion.

Comcast continues to suffer from video and voice customer loss due to cord-cutting and stiff competition from Netflix, Hulu and YouTube. The company's high debt level is also a concern.
