Summary

Shares of Darden have underperformed the industry in the past six months. Despite the company having reported better-than-expected third-quarter fiscal 2020 results, shares are likely to witness a decline owing to the coronavirus outbreak. In fact, the company has withdrawn 2020 guidance due to the same. The company announced for the fourth quarter to date through May 17, sales declined 47.9%. Moreover, for the weeks ended Apr 26, May 3, May 10 and May 17, same-restaurant sales were down 60.1%, 57.7%, 50.8% and 49%, respectively. Moreover, fierce competition and softer-than-expected consumer demand might keep comps under pressure. Further, rising labor costs may dampen profits. However, various sales-building initiatives and technology-driven moves bode well. Of late, earnings estimates for fiscal 2020 have witnessed upward revisions.

Overview

Founded in 1968 and based in Orlando, FL, Darden Restaurants is one of the largest casual dining restaurant operators worldwide. The company has operations in the United States and Canada with more than 1,700 restaurants.

Beginning fourth-quarter fiscal 2015, the company began reporting its business under four segments: Olive Garden (50.4% of total revenues in fiscal 2019), LongHorn Steakhouse (21.3%), Fine Dining (7.1%) and Other Business (21.2%).

Fine Dining, includes The Capital Grille and Eddie V's while the Other Business segment comprises of Cheddar's Scratch Kitchen, Yard House, Seasons 52, Bahama Breeze, consumer packaged goods and franchise revenues. Notably, all the company owned restaurants fall under full-service segment of the restaurant industry.

Florida-based Olive Garden is the largest full-service Italian restaurant in America. The brand features a menu, which has a variety of Italian food made with fresh ingredients.

LongHorn Steakhouse is a full-service steakhouse restaurant, with locations primarily in the eastern United States. The brand offers signature fresh steaks and chicken as well as salmon, shrimp, ribs, pork chops, burgers and prime rib.

Cheddar's Scratch Kitchen is a full-service restaurant operating in Texas and throughout the southern, mid-western and mid-Atlantic regions of the United States. The casual dining menu features modern classics and American favorites cooked from scratch.

The acquired operations of Cheddar's Scratch Kitchen included 140 company-owned restaurants and 25 franchised restaurants. On Aug 28, 2017, Darden completed the acquisition of 11 Cheddar's Scratch Kitchen franchised restaurants from an already existing franchisee.

Reasons To Buy:

▲ Impressive Earnings Trend: We are encouraged by Darden's impressive earnings trend. Notably, the company's earnings met/surpassed the Zacks Consensus Estimate for 22 straight quarters. In third-quarter fiscal 2020, adjusted earnings came in at $1.90 per share, which outpaced the Zacks Consensus Estimate of $1.88. The bottom line also improved 5.6% year over year. The company's relentless efforts to augment the basic operating factors of the business — food, service and ambiance drove the bottom line.

▲ Cheddar's a Long-term Growth Driver: Darden's acquisition of the small restaurant chain, Cheddar's Scratch Kitchen (Cheddar's), in April 2017 has added an undisputed casual dining value to the company's portfolio of differentiated brands. It also helped Darden to further enhance its scale. Further, management made significant operational readjustment to the brand, which is expected to reap long-term benefits. Apart from making good progress with the integration of Cheddar's, the company seems to gain more confidence in its outcome. Over the current fiscal year, Darden plans to make significant non-guest facing changes, which is anticipated to have an impact on restaurant level execution. Moving forward, the company considers Cheddar a significant prospect for long-term growth.

▲ Brand Renaissance Plan for Olive Garden and Other Initiatives to Boost the Top Line: In order to boost the performance of the Olive Garden brand, the company implemented a set of initiatives under its Brand Renaissance Plan. These included simplifying kitchen systems, improving sales planning and scheduling, operational excellence to improve guest experience, developing new core menu items, allowing customization and making smarter promotional investments. The revamped restaurants are already generating high same-restaurant sales and returns. Moreover, third-quarter fiscal 2020 marked Olive Garden's 22nd consecutive quarter of positive comps. Meanwhile, the company is also focusing on technology-driven initiatives like the system-wide rollout of tablets in order to capitalize on the digitization, which has rapidly penetrated the U.S. fast-casual restaurant sector. This initiative has been providing a boost to the company's sales for the past few quarters.

▲ Initiatives to Attract Guests at LongHorn and Other Units: At LongHorn, the company strives to attract its guests by focusing on core menu, culinary innovation and providing regional flavors. It is also working on its marketing strategy to improve execution; customer relationship management and digital advertising as well as a strong promotional pipeline that leverage the segment's expertise. Further, the company continues to focus on strengthening its in-restaurant execution through investments in quality and simplification of operations in order to augment the guest experience. Owing to these efforts, segmental comps registered growth for 28 consecutive quarters. Meanwhile, the Capital Grille, Yard House, Seasons 52, Bahama Breeze and Eddie V have also posted positive comps in most of the quarters, since the beginning of fiscal 2014. Sales are being driven by various initiatives undertaken and personalized services, which are likely to aid long-term growth as well.

Cheddar's acquisition, various sales boosting initiatives along with the cost saving efforts undertaken by the company are expected to drive growth

Reasons To Sell:

▼ Coronavirus to Hurt Performance: The coronavirus pandemic will hurt the company's results in the coming quarters. The company has withdrawn 2020 guidance owing to the deadly pandemic. The company provided same-store sales update for the fourth quarter to date through May 17. The company's same-restaurant sales declined 47.9% in the period. Moreover, for the weeks ended Apr 26, May 3, May 10 and May 17, same-restaurant sales were down 60.1%, 57.7%, 50.8% and 49%, respectively. For the first eight weeks of the fourth quarter, same-restaurant sales were up 3.0% and down 0.2%, 20.6%, 75.2%, 74.9%, 71.2%, 65.2% and 60%, respectively. For the fourth quarter to date through May 17, same-restaurant sales were down 39.4%, 45.8%, 63.1% and 65.5% at Olive Garden, LongHorn Steakhouse, Fine Dining and Other Business, respectively. The company has also suspended the quarterly cash dividend.

High costs, coronavirus outbreak, a tricky consumer spending environment in the U.S. restaurant space along with the company's limited international presence raise concerns.

▼ Margins Likely to Be Under Pressure: Higher labor costs due to increased wages and costs incurred due to the implementation of the Affordable Care Act are expected to continue to keep profits under pressure. Further, the non-franchised model makes the company susceptible to increased expenses. Since all the restaurants are owned and operated by Darden, instead of signing franchise agreements and putting the burden of costs into the franchisee, the company is solely responsible for the expenses of operating the business.

Total operating costs and expenses increased 4.8% year over year in fiscal 2019. Moreover, in the fiscal first, second and third quarter of 2020, total operating costs and expenses rose 3.2%, 3.9% and 4.4%, respectively. The upside can be attributed to an overall increase in food and beverage costs, restaurant expenses, and labor costs. Increase in expenses might hurt the company's margin in the coming quarters.

▼ Limited International Presence: Darden's restaurants are located in the United States and Canada, and the company has no exposure in international markets. While several other fast casual restaurateurs are capitalizing on the emerging market potential, Darden seems to be slow on this front. We believe that the company needs to expand its presence beyond the United States in order to offset the impact of cutthroat competition in the saturated domestic market.

▼ Industry Susceptible to Consumer Discretionary Spending: Darden operates in the retail restaurant space that is highly dependent on consumer discretionary spending. Consumers' propensity to spend largely depends on the overall macro-economic scenario. Although higher disposable income and increased wages are favoring the industry right now, it can change with the slightest disruption in the economy. Darden, therefore, is highly vulnerable to the inconsistent nature of consumer discretionary spending. If the company does not make pragmatic use of advanced technologies to innovate across value chains, it has high chances of fading out like many other retailers.

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	A
Growth Score	A
Momentum Score	F
VGM Score	A

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
