Summary

Estee Lauder has outperformed the industry in the past year, courtesy of robust sales and earnings history. The company has been gaining from growth across most brands and sales channels. The trend continued in second-quarter fiscal 2020, with the top and the bottom line surpassing estimates and rising year on year. Performance was supported by growth in emerging markets, travel retail and online sales. However, the company is witnessing certain headwinds caused by the recent outbreak of the coronavirus in China and around the world. Additionally, adverse currency movements are expected to negatively impact the company's performance in fiscal 2020. Moreover, challenges in Hong Kong's retail environment and tariff impacts in China are a concern. Notably, management lowered sales and earnings guidance for fiscal 2020.

Reasons To Buy:

▲ Stellar Performance Boost Stock: Estee Lauder has been performing well on strong brand growth across most sales channels and regions. Such upsides combined with efficient operational strategies have led to remarkable top-line and bottom-line trends. With second-quarter fiscal 2020 results, the company marked its 22nd and 12th straight quarter of earnings and sales beat, respectively. Also, the metrics improved year over year. Apart from strong brands, performance in the quarter was aided by solid skincare and fragrance categories along with strength in travel retail and online channel sales. Also, China and other emerging regions continued to perform well. The sturdy brand performances were supported by focus on innovation as well as prudent marketing and advertising strategies. Moreover, savings from the Leading Beauty Forward initiative provided the company additional financial strength to invest in growth moves. The stellar past performance along with solid presence in emerging markets have boosted investors' optimism in the stock. Estee Lauder's shares have rallied 40.1% in a year, compared with the industry's rise of 3.1%.

Estee Lauder has been gaining from strong brands and growth in the emerging markets. Additionally, it has been depicting strong growth in its online and travel retail network.

▲ Solid Presence in Emerging Markets: Estee Lauder has strong presence in emerging markets which insulates it from the macroeconomic headwinds in the matured markets. The company derives significant revenues from emerging markets like Thailand, India, Russia and Brazil, which keeps it encouraged about making distributional, digital and marketing investments in these countries. In fiscal second quarter fiscal, the company witnessed growth in most emerging markets. This was backed by customer-oriented products and efficient social media operations.

Markedly, China remains a major area of focus for Estee Lauder. In fact, in second-quarter fiscal 2020, the region witnessed robust double-digit gains across most brands. Sales channels, especially online, grew significantly. Management, as part of its long-term emerging market strategy, has been making constant investments in China for the past 20 years and plans to continue growing market share in the region. Though the company is currently battling headwinds related to Coronavirus and tariffs in China, the country's long-term demographic and economic trends keeps Estee Lauder encouraged. Additionally, it is striving to expand in other emerging regions as well.

▲ Strong Online Business: Estee Lauder has a strong online business and the company expects it to be a major growth engine for the upcoming few years. Estee Lauder was the first global prestige beauty company that went online with the Clinique brand in the United States in 1996 and has now spread its presence online to about 50 markets. Further, Estee Lauder is implementing new technology and digital experiences including online booking for each store appointment, omni-channel loyalty programs and high touch mobile services. These initiatives and the company's digital-first mindset have been boosting the company's online sales, thus being a major growth driver for its overall top line. In fiscal second quarter, the online business witnessed double-digit growth across all online distribution channels along with growth in all regions.

The company is focused on expanding brand presence across various third-party sites, rolled out new digital payment technologies and enhanced its loyalty programs as it continues to widen market reach in the United States. In North America, the company gained from solid online sales from La Mer brand driven by unique product assortment and an effective holiday campaign during fiscal second quarter. Earlier, management stated that Estee Lauder has been gaining from the launch of Tom Ford Beauty and Jo Malone London brands on TMall in China. Also, significant contributions are being derived from other smaller regions. In fact, online markets in Spain, Greece, Israel and India are expanding rapidly and present solid growth opportunities.

▲ Travel Retail to Drive Sales Further: Estee Lauder has been strongly focused on enhancing its travel retail business, which remains a major sales driver for the company. Travel retail sales were sturdy in second-quarter fiscal 2020, with broad-based growth in most brands, regions and categories. During fiscal second quarter, the company's top eight brands grew double digits in the segment. Strength in skin care and various fragrance along with expanded targeted reach drove growth. Also, innovative pre-retail campaign, different retailers' activation and effective advertising aided performance.

Although Estee Lauder has been facing certain challenges in travel retail stemming from the recent outbreak of coronavirus, management is optimistic about gradual recovery in the future. That said, Estee Lauder's travel retail sales have been benefitting from rise in traffic, effective launches and impressive marketing strategies. Further, the company expects the travel retail business to gain from rising passenger traffic, favorable fundamentals and higher conversions. Well, the company remains committed toward undertaking more efforts to enhance conversions through strategic initiatives. To this end, it has been undertaking various endeavors like better customer insights; enhanced merchandising and improved digital marketing.

Reasons To Sell:

▼ Threats in China & Dismal Outlook: We note that Estee Lauder is witnessing a difficult time caused by the recent outbreak of coronavirus in China and globally. In fact, management anticipates the next few months to remain tough as consumer traffic in China remains slow. The outbreak has led to a number of store closures as well as limited hours of work. Moreover, restricted global travel has been affecting the company's travel retail business.

Management is cautious about tariff impacts and outbreak of coronavirus in China. Moreover, unfavorable currency rate is a worry.

Apart from this, management is cautious about factors like tariff impacts in China and challenges in Hong Kong's retail environment. Incidentally, the company lowered its outlook for fiscal 2020. For fiscal 2020, adjusted earnings are projected in the band of $5.60-$5.70 compared with previous view of $5.85-$5.93. At constant currency, earnings are projected to grow in the range of 9-11% compared with the previous guidance of 10-12% growth. Net sales are expected to rise 6-8% compared with previous view of 7-8% for fiscal 2020.

▼ Risk of Operating in Overseas Markets: Estee Lauder's financial performance may be largely affected by its significant presence in the international markets, which exposes it to the risk of unfavorable foreign currency translations, economic or political instability, and other governmental actions on trade and repatriation of foreign profits. In fiscal 2020, currency movements are likely to affect the bottom line by almost 5 cents. Further, currency fluctuations are likely to have a 1% negative impact on the top line in the same period.

▼ Market Trends and Consumer Preferences: As Estee Lauder operates in a consumer centric market, its ability to garner profits depends largely on how well it can predict changes in consumer preferences and spending patterns for beauty products and respond in a timely manner to fulfill the same.

Hence, failure to stay up to date on product mix by continually searching for new products and anchoring new supplier agreements may result in becoming obsolete.

▼ Cheaper Alternatives & Competition: The cosmetics industry is very competitive not only with regard to the peers existing in the space but also due to the fact that the market is flooded with alternative products. Therefore, it is very difficult to advertise a product and convert into sales, as many cheaper generic products are available. Cheaper alternatives may hinder customers' loyalty for the brand, thus impacting the sale of its products.

Last Earnings Report

Estee Lauder Q2 Earnings & Sales Beat Estimates

Estee Lauder Companies Inc. reported second-quarter fiscal 2020 adjusted earnings per share of $2.11, beating the Zacks Consensus Estimate of $1.91. This reflected growth of 21% on adjusted as well as constant-currency basis. The upside was driven by a robust top-line performance.

Estee Lauder's net sales of $4,624 million surpassed the Zacks Consensus Estimate of $4,364 million. Moreover, sales increased 15% year over year (16% at cc). Results gained from strong international market performance (especially Asia/Pacific region); strength in Skin Care and Fragrance categories, and solid sales of Estee Lauder and various other luxury brands. Also, the company's travel retail and online channels performed well. Further, it gained from innovation and digital marketing.

Gross profit came in at $3,583 million, up 16%. Also, gross margin expanded 20 basis points (bps) to 77.5%.

However, operating income declined 66% year over year to $261 million. Operating income margin declined significantly to 5.6% from 19.3% reported in the year-ago period.

Product-Based Segment Results

Skin Care reported sales growth of 27% year over year (up 28% at cc) to $2,205 million, backed by strength in Estee Lauder and La Mer brands.

Makeup revenues were up 6% year over year (up 7% at cc) to $1,660 million, owing to solid sales of Estee Lauder, Tom Ford Beauty, La Mer and Bobbi Brown, partly negated by softness in Smashbox and BECCA.

In the Fragrance category, revenues improved 8% year over year (up 9% at cc) to $581 million driven by increased sales of Jo Malone London and Tom Ford Beauty.

Hair Care sales totaled $162 million that grew 5% year on year (also at cc). This can be attributed to strong sales of Aveda and Bumble and bumble.

Regional Results

Sales in the Americas increased 1% year over year (also at cc) to $1,226 million, driven by growth from Estee Lauder, Origins and La Mer. Further, the fragrance category increased in double digits in North America.

Sales in Europe, the Middle East & Africa region improved 18% (also at cc) to $2,079 million, backed by strong gains in the online, travel retail and specialty-multi channels.

In the Asia-Pacific region, sales rose 29% (up 30% at cc) to $1,319 million, with broad-based growth across most markets.

Other Financial Updates

Net cash flow used for operating activities during the first half of fiscal 2020 was $1.26 billion.

In a separate press release, management announced quarterly dividend of 48 cents for Class A and Class B shares. This is payable on Mar 16, 2020, to shareholders of record as of Feb 28.

Guidance

Estee Lauder expects solid demand for its premium products in fiscal 2020, wherein it anticipates to deliver above-industry growth.

However, the company expects coronavirus to impact global prestige beauty industry over the next few months. The company's guidance includes expected impacts from the recent coronavirus outbreak.

For fiscal 2020, adjusted earnings are projected in the band of $5.60-$5.70 compared with prior view of $5.85-$5.93. At cc, earnings are projected to grow in the range of 9-11% compared with the previous guidance of 10-12% growth. Currency is likely to adversely impact the bottom line by almost 5 cents.

Net sales are expected to rise 6-8% compared with previous view of 7-8% for fiscal 2020. The company's acquisition of Have & Be is expected to contribute around 1% to overall sales. Currency fluctuations are likely to have a 1% negative impact on the top line.

Quarter Ending 12/2019

Report Date	Feb 06, 2020

Recent News

Estee Lauder Announces Dividend – Feb 6, 2020

Estee Lauder announced that its board of directors declared dividend of 48 cents per share paid out on March 16, 2020, to shareholders of record at the close of business on Feb 28, 2020.

Estee Lauder's Have & Be Buyout to Boost Skin Care Unit - Dec 17, 2019

Estee Lauder concluded the acquisition of two-thirds shares of Have & Be Co. — the Seoul-based skin care company — which owns brands like Dr. Jart+ and Do The Right Thing. In 2015, Estee Lauder had made a minor investment in Have & Be. Management had stated that Have & Be had an enterprise value of $1.7 billion. Also, the company had earlier announced to fund this transaction with debt.

Launched in 2005, Dr. Jart+ — Have & Be's skin care brand — focuses on making high-quality products that combine dermatology, art and innovation. Cicapair and Ceramidin are some of the best known skin care collections of the brand. Dr Jart+ offers a broad range of exclusive moisturizers, masks, cleansers and serums, which are sold through specialty-multi channels, travel retail, freestanding stores, high-end department stores and online websites in over 35 countries worldwide.

Notably, Dr. Jart+ has become one of the most popular Korean skin care brands globally, especially among millennials in Asia and the United States. This fast growing brand is expected to help Estee Lauder strengthen its skin care business and expand operations in Asia/Pacific, North America, the U.K. as well as the travel retail network.
