Summary

Expedia's second quarter results were negatively impacted by increasing cancellation rate of bookings due to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic. Nevertheless, the company has now started witnessing moderation in the cancellation of bookings. Further, improving performance of Vrbo remains a positive. Additionally, cost-saving initiatives of the company remain tailwinds. Also, Expedia's strengthening global lodging portfolio is a major positive. Further, its strong supply acquisition efforts, strategic investments and product innovation endeavors remain key catalysts. However, headwinds in the global travel industry owing to the pandemic are primary concerns. Further, sluggishness in the company's trivago segment remains an overhang. Notably, the stock has underperformed the industry it belongs to on a year-to-date basis.

Overview

Bellevue, Washington-based Expedia Group, Inc. is one of the largest online travel companies in the world. The company's web portals focus on travel planning, travel purchases and travel experience sharing thus bringing suppliers and consumers of travel-related services together.

Along with destination and flight plan choices, the websites also provide details of the places to be visited, maps, local restaurants, things to do, cruises, special offers and consumer reviews so prospective customers can view their options, partake in offers, check reviews and book according to their preferences.

The company generated $12.1 billion of revenues in 2019, of which 78.1% was from the core business. trivago, Egencia and Vrbo accounted 7.8%, 5.1% and 11.1%, respectively. Further, the new segment called Corporate comprising Bodybuilding.com, which was acquired in 2019, accounted for 0.5% of total revenues.

Under the Merchant model (53.5% of revenues), the company takes over the marketing functions of its supplier and directly sells to customers. Under the Agency model (26.3%), the company acts as an agent accepting bookings from customers and transferring them to the relevant airline, hotel, car rental company or cruise line for a commission. The Advertising & Media (Trivago and the Media Solutions Group) segment contributed 9.1% of the revenues..

The most popular corporate brands include Expedia.com, Hotels.com, Hotwire.com, Venere, TripAdvisor.com, Classic Vacations, Expedia Local Expert, Egencia and Vrbo.

To support these brands, the company operates many technology platforms. Its Brand Expedia platform supports Orbitz, Travelocity, Wotif Group, CheapTickets, ebookers, Expedia Local Expert and certain parts of Hotwire.

The Hotels.com technology platform supports Hotels.com and EAN, the hotel-only offerings of the company.

Around 56.9% of total revenues were generated domestically, with the international locations contributing 43.1%. The largest peer companies are Priceline.com, as well as international players like MakeMyTrip, Ctrip and Qunar.

In March 2019, Expedia Group rebranded HomeAway as Vrbo.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Expedia has an effective quantitative model which holds promise. It helps to study customer behavior and spending patterns, as well as the company's success rates. These success rates are used for winning suppliers which in turn strengthens the Expedia's offering to the customers. These offerings help in attracting more customers, which in turn generates revenue for the company. It is this platform that hotels and other travel providers are attracted to. Further, the company has a very strong position in the domestic market and continues to consolidate its strengths here, making it all the more important for hotels to share inventory with it.
- ▲ With trade and cultural barriers receding in many countries and increased outsourcing activity, the number of travelers moving across the world has risen significantly. The company is capitalizing on this opportunity by adding inventory, collaborating with local players and stepping up its own marketing efforts. All these factors are helping the company to make the most of travel opportunities worldwide, which in turn are strengthening its international footprints. Notably, Expedia holds a broad multi-product supply portfolio — with nearly 1.6 million properties, including over 765,000 of Vrbo's over 2.1 million online bookable alternative accommodations listings, in 200 countries and territories, over 500 airlines, packages, rental cars, cruises, and insurance.
- ▲ Expedia has been snapping up companies to increase its penetration in existing markets, expand in others. The buyouts of Wotif, Travelocity, Orbitz and Vrbo will continue to drive growth in the online travel space. Wotif continues to aid the company's presence in Australia and New Zealand. The Travelocity acquisition appears to have been brewing for some time now. Orbitz has added some important flights technology, particularly on the business side and helped the company consolidate its leading position in the domestic market. Notably, both Travelocity and Orbitz are full-service travel brands with websites in seven European nations. Further, the acquisition of Vrbo has added vacation rental apartments to the company's hotels portfolio. This is a completely new area with significant growth prospects. We believe Vrbo will continue to perform well and drive the gross bookings and stayed room nights. This will in turn, boost the top-line growth of the company.
- ▲ The SilverRail acquisition is a part of Expedia's prudent growth plan for both domestic and international markets. Expedia and SilverRail are in a rail distribution partnership in the latter has been powering Expedia's rail services. SilverRail platform connects rail carriers and suppliers to online and offline travel distributors. It is expanding Expedia's railway booking services to key markets. Expedia's success is largely backed its technology and diversity and expanding rail ticketing on a global scale.

A solid travel booking platform, a stronger travel market, contribution from a series of acquisitions and management execution are positives.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ Expedia continues to see a significant amount of litigation. This is mainly because there seems to be a doubt about whether its revenue is taxable under the tax ordinances applicable to hotels. It has been argued that had the hotels charged customers directly, they would have charged higher rates than the online travel companies who acquire inventory at wholesale prices. Therefore, a higher amount would have come under the ambit of occupancy tax. Additionally, it appears that the online travel companies have been collecting cash from customers in the name of occupancy taxes on the retail value of rooms sold, but remitting taxes on wholesale prices to hotels. Online travel companies have been winning some cases and losing some, but they have paid significant amount of taxes in some states.
- ▼ Since the proliferation of smartphones and app usage to search for travel information have reduced dependence on search engines, Expedia's relationship with Google has turned problematic. Google's venture into the online travel market has increased competition and costs for Expedia. Google allows users to compare airline tickets across various travel sites on its search platform, thus putting online travel agencies, such as Expedia at risk. Google Travel, which combines Google Flights, Google Hotels, vacation packages and a variety of trip-planning tools and recommendations under one umbrella, remains a major headwind for Expedia.
- ▼ A more recent concern is Google reserving more of the search results page to serve ads, meaning that if Expedia wants to get results at the top of the page it has to pay more than the usual CPC for a regular search. Moreover, changes in the Google search algorithm is a major negative. Further, Google is installing new modules into Google search results that are directing consumers to Google Hotel Ads or Google Flights. This is causing traffic shift from Expedia to Google. This is likely to continue impacting Expedia, due to Google's increasing search initiatives.
- ▼ Expedia Group also has a leveraged balance sheet. As of Jun 30, 2020, the company's net debt was $2.2 billion compared with $831 million as of Mar 31, 2020. Moreover, debt-to-capital stands at 70.5% as of Jun 30, 2020 which is up from 66.4% as of Mar 31, 2020. Accumulating high debt levels might restrict sufficient cash flow generation which is needed to meet future debt obligations. Moreover, this may keep the company away from accessing the debt market and refinancing at suitable rates.

We think that increasing competition across geographies and litigation issues remain major concerns.

Last Earnings Report

Expedia Reports Loss in Q2

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	B
Growth Score	D
Momentum Score	D
VGM Score	D

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
