Summary

GoDaddy continues to ride on personalized products and services, and the technology platform. Growing adoption of its domain products continues to drive top-line growth. Acquisitions, international expansion, robust feature engagements and strength in GoCentral are driving growth of the Hosting and Presence segment. Moreover, increasing subscription of GoCentral remains a major positive. Additionally, growing momentum of Open-Xchange in emerging markets is likely to accelerate revenues within the Business Applications unit. However, the company's heavy debt burden and rising expenses remain concerns. Notably, the stock has underperformed the industry it belongs to in the past year.

Overview

Based in Scottsdale, AZ, GoDaddy is an Internet domain registrar and web hosting company that also sells e-business related software and services. The company is engaged in the designing and development of cloud-based technology products for small businesses, Web design professionals and individuals.

GoDaddy reported revenues of $2.99 billion in 2019, up 12.7% year over year. The company generates revenues from three segments — Domains (45% of revenues), Hosting and Presence Offerings (38%) and Business Applications (17%).

Domain revenues mainly consist of sale of domain name registration subscriptions, domain add-ons and aftermarket sales. Hosting and presence revenues principally consist of subscription sales to their website hosting products, website building products and SSL certificates. Business applications revenues primarily consist of revenues from the sale of subscriptions for email accounts, online calendar, online data storage and email marketing tools.

The company's subscription terms are typically one year but can range from monthly to multi-year contracts of up to 10 years depending on the product. Usually, the company collects the entire subscription fee at the time of sale but recognizes revenues from subscriptions ratably over the applicable contractual terms.

GoDaddy faces significant competition in domain, hosting and presence markets from companies like Endurance, Rightside and Web.com. Additionally, web-hosting and other cloud-based service providers like Amazon, Google and Microsoft that have recently entered the domain name registration business as upstream registries, and eBay and Facebook, which offer robust Internet marketing platforms have intensified competition in the space.

GoDaddy — listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the ticker "GDDY" — went public on Apr 2, 2015. The company priced its initial offering at $20 a share.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ GoDaddy boasts a huge customer base and steady revenue and booking growth. The company has a leading position in the industry, with one out of every five domain registrations. The company had approximately 19.3 million customers as of December 2019, an increase of 4.1% versus a year ago, mainly small and medium-sized businesses that pay annual subscription fees to register domain names and get other online services like web hosting. Also, GoDaddy's bookings increased 12.9% from 2019.
- ▲ Increasing international presence keeps the growth prospects of GoDaddy high. In 2019, the company's 8 million or 44% customers were located in international markets, notably Canada, India and the United Kingdom. To continue expanding its international presence, the company is investing in technology, marketing programs, data centers and customer care teams. Moreover, the acquisition of HEG will continue to help the company in expanding its customer base in international regions.
- ▲ GoDaddy has been supplementing organizational growth with strategic acquisitions. When deciding on a target, management generally looks for a particular niche expertise, which would round out its portfolio or help it to expand its international operations. For this purpose, in April 2017, it acquired Host Europe Group ("HEG"), a European web hosting provider. The deal is strengthening GoDaddy's foothold in the European market. The company also acquired Serbia based WordPress site management tool maker, ManageWP. This deal enables GoDaddy to provide a single destination for web professionals to manage their WordPress sites. The acquisition was intended to augment GoDaddy's portfolio and build its global market share. Further, GoDaddy acquired Main Street Hub in 2018 which helped it in introducing social media management tools.

GoDaddy's leading market position, strategic acquisitions, international expansion and a diversified product portfolio are positives.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ GoDaddy faces intense competition in domain, hosting and presence markets from companies like Endurance, Rightside, and Web.com, as well as Amazon, Google and Microsoft which provide web-hosting and other cloud-based services and recently entered the domain name registration business as upstream registries, and eBay and Facebook, offering robust Internet marketing platforms. Along with these big cloud companies, a lot of small hosting companies offer extremely affordable services. (For instance, DigitalOcean).
- ▼ Even after the IPO, GoDaddy carries a substantial debt burden of more than $1 billion. This in turn will take up a lot of cash flow to cover interest payments and make it difficult for the company to navigate if the economy weakens. The debt has to be paid off or refinanced between 2019 and 2021. There remains the risk that lenders might be unwilling to finance the company then and interest rates could also increase. This will make it harder for GoDaddy to earn profits.
- ▼ We note that GoDaddy currently has a trailing 12 month P/S ratio of 3.45, which compares unfavorably with what the Zacks industry saw over the last year. Hence, valuation looks slightly stretched from a P/S perspective.

The increasing competition and the company's substantial debt burden remain concerns.

The company generated revenues of $780.4 million, up 12.2% year over year or 13% on a constant-currency basis. The reported figure surpassed the Zacks Consensus Estimate by 0.4%.

The revenue growth was driven by strong performance of its product segments on a year-over-year basis. Also, the increase in revenue per user aided growth.

GoDaddy generates revenues from three segments — Domain, Hosting and Presence, & Business Applications.

Domain: The company generated revenues of $352.3million (45% of total revenues) from this segment. The figure improved 12.1% from the year-ago quarter, driven by strong liquid domain aftermarket and renewals.

Hosting and Presence: This segment generated revenues of $292.8 million (38% of revenues), increasing 8.4% on a year-over-year basis. The revenue growth can be primarily attributed to robust feature engagements, bookings and appointments within this segment. Further, the well-performing GoCentral remained a major positive.

In the fourth quarter, total bookings of $833.6 million increased 13.8% year over year or 14.1% on a constant-currency basis.
