Summary

Grainger's fourth-quarter 2019 adjusted earnings per share (EPS) marked a decline from the year-ago quarter despite a rise in revenues, primarily owing to a higher tax rate. While revenues beat the Zacks Consensus Estimate, earnings missed the same. Grainger expects EPS of $17.75-$19.25 in 2020. The mid-point of the guidance range indicates year-over-year growth of 7% from 2018. The company will benefit from efforts to strengthen relationships with customers in the United States. The Canada segment is expected to deliver growth aided by focus on reducing costs. However, input cost inflation and unfavorable foreign exchange remain headwinds. Grainger is likely to benefit from investments in e-commerce over the long haul. Nevertheless, this will lead to higher operating expenses in the near term and dent margins.

Overview

Incorporated in 1928, IL-based W.W. Grainger Inc. is a broad line, business-to-business distributor of maintenance, repair and operating (MRO) products and services. Its operations are primarily in North America, Europe and Japan. The global MRO market is approximately $608 billion, and the Grainger's estimated market size is $284 billion. Its customers represent a wide array of industries including government, manufacturing, transportation, commercial and contractors.

Its products include material-handling equipment, safety and security supplies, lighting and electrical products, power and hand tools, pumps and plumbing supplies, cleaning and maintenance supplies, and metalworking tools.

The company reports revenues under two business segments — the United States, which contributes around 74% to revenues, and Canada, which generates around 5%. The Other Businesses accounts for nearly 21% of revenues.

The U.S. business offers a broad selection of MRO products and services through its e-commerce platform, catalogs, branches and sales and service representatives. A combination of product breadth, local availability, speed of delivery, detailed product information and competitively priced products and services is provided by this business. Customers range from small and mid-sized businesses to large corporations, government entities and other institutions within various industries.

Acklands – Grainger and its subsidiaries (the Canada business) provide a combination of product breadth, local availability, speed of delivery, detailed product information and competitively priced products and services. The Canada business serves customers through branches, DCs and sales and service representatives.

The businesses from the operating units in Japan, Mexico, India, Puerto Rico, China, Panama and Columbia and Fabory Group are all combined and included in Other Businesses.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Grainger initiated guidance for full-year 2020. Operating margin is projected in the band of 11.7-12.5%. The company expects EPS of $17.75-$19.25. The mid-point of the guidance range indicates year-over-year growth of 7% from 2018. Gross margin is estimated between 37.2% and 37.8%. Revenue growth is projected between 3.5% and 6.5% driven by outperformance to the market in the United States, and continued expansion of endless assortment business. Grainger expects its endless assortment business to grow around 20% in 2020.
- ▲ The company accomplished the goal of remerchandising a record $1.2 billion of products in the United States and is on track to complete another $1.6 billion in 2020. Aided by its ongoing investments in growth initiatives, Grainger outgrew the U.S MRO market by 150-200 basis points in 2019. The company gained momentum through the year and exited the fourth quarter growing about 300 basis points faster than the market. In the fourth quarter, the U.S. large customer business grew 3% or 350 basis points faster than the market while the U.S. midsize customer business grew 5% or approximately 550 basis points faster than the market. Growth in these two customer groups remained stable despite slower market conditions in the quarter. The company expects the segment to outpace the MRO market, which includes a target of 300-400 basis points annual outgrowth in the United States. Grainger will continue its efforts to strengthen relationships with both large and mid-sized customers to improve sales force effectiveness. Grainger continues to re-engage lapsed customers and acquire new ones.
- ▲ Grainger's Canada business is an attractive market and is expected to deliver double-digit operating margin growth over the next five years. The company has been focused on reducing its cost structure in the Canada operations to drive profitable growth. Grainger has been managing inventory effectively to drive profitability, and is focused on making incremental investments in marketing and merchandising. Through 2019, revenues have stabilized and customer feedback has improved significantly. Grainger expects to return to growth in the business in the back half of 2020 and anticipates the business to be sustainable and profitable in the future.
- ▲ Grainger continues to expect strong cash flow generation for the current year. The company plans to utilize the cash in invest in its distribution network, digital platform, and IT infrastructure. The company will also continue to return cash to shareholders through share repurchase and dividends. Grainger returned $1 billion to shareholders through $328 million in dividends and $700 million to buy back around 2.4 million shares in 2019. In April, the company's board declared and authorized the repurchase of up to 5 million shares of the company's outstanding common stock, replacing the company's existing repurchase program. As of Dec 31, 2019, the company had approximately 53.7 million shares of common stock outstanding. For 2020, the company plans to make $600 million to $700 million of share repurchases. For 2020, the company anticipates operating cash flow between $1.1 billion and $1.2 billion. Capital expenditures are projected at about $250 million. The major portion of the investment will be on the U.S. segment and endless assortment business in order to drive growth in these areas.
- ▲ Grainger's e-commerce sales continue to grow. The company is focused on improving the end-to-end customer experience by making investments in its e-commerce and digital capabilities, and executing improvement initiatives within its supply chain. Notably, it intends to continue to reduce the cost base. The company's single-channel businesses, primarily MonotaRO and Zoro, continued to drive profitable growth. The company expects to drive growth with endless assortment model through the strength of the MonotaRO and the incremental investments in Zoro.

Grainger will gain from momentum in the United States, turnaround in the Canadian business and investments in digital capabilities. Focus on strengthening customer base will also drive growth.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ Given the success of the Zoro business, the company has decided to invest in Zoro to accelerate its product expansion efforts. The company is also leveraging its knowledge of MonotaRO to improve marketing and analytics capability in the Zoro U.S. operation. These changes call for some incremental investment, which in turn will lower margins in the Zoro business in the near term.
- ▼ The implementation of tariffs has led to input cost inflation. The company is working with suppliers to minimize the cost impact, including identifying alternative supply and evaluating pricing actions. Moreover, the company is also facing higher freight costs.
- ▼ Grainger's operating expenses will be higher as the company invests in digital marketing capabilities. Its results will also bear the brunt of foreign exchange headwind.

Grainger's results will bear the brunt of input cost inflation, higher freight charges and foreign exchange headwind. Operating expenses will be higher as it invests in digital marketing.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	B
Growth Score	B
