Summary

Leidos Holdings has outperformed its industry in the past year. Increased contract wins from the Pentagon and other U.S. allies owing to its cost-effective defense solutions have been acting as a key catalyst for this defense major. In fact, these contract wins tend to bolster its backlog, thereby boosting its revenue growth prospects. Leidos Holdings' strong balance sheet and a steady cash flow position offer it substantial financial flexibility. However, the outcome of any ongoing or future audits remains unpredictable, and if future adjustments exceed the company's estimates, the company's profitability may be adversely affected. In the United States, Leidos Holdings faces intense competition with well-recognized companies for its broad portfolio of products and services.

Overview

Founded in 1969, Delaware-based Leidos Holdings, Inc. is a global science and technology leader that serves the defense, intelligence, civil and health markets. Its core capabilities include providing solutions in the fields of cybersecurity; data analytics; enterprise IT modernization; operations and logistics; sensors, collection and phenomenology; software development; and systems engineering. Outside the United State, the company's international customers include foreign governments and their agencies, primarily located in the United Kingdom, the Middle East and Australia.

Leidos Holdings currently operates through three business segments namely — Defense Solutions, Civil and Health.

Defense Solutions: This business segment offers surveillance and reconnaissance, integrated systems solutions and global services for the U.S. Intelligence Community, military commands as well as other government and commercial customers. It provides multi-spectral, airborne, ground and maritime ISR collection as well as processing systems, advanced sensor design, command and control solutions, and training systems. In 2019, this division generated sales of $5,367 million, contributing 48.4% to total business sales.

Civil: This segment provides aviation solutions, security products, enterprise IT services, federal environment and infrastructure solutions as well as logistics. While aviation solutions provide systems integration for Air Navigation Service Providers, including the FAA and airport operators, security products include Vehicle and Cargo Inspection System, explosive detection systems as well as radiation detection systems. The unit realized sales of $3,729 million in 2019, accounting for 33.6% of total business sales.

Health: This unit offers affordable solutions to federal and commercial customers, which are responsible for the health and well-being of people worldwide comprising service members and veterans. ## Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Increased contract wins for its cost-effective defense solutions from the Pentagon as well as other U.S. allies have been serving as a primary growth driver for Leidos Holdings. In fact, these contract wins tend to bolster the company's backlog. At the end of 2019, Leidos Holdings' total backlog stood at $24.1 billion compared with $20.8 billion at 2018-end. Such solid backlog trends indicate impressive revenue growth prospects for the company in quarters ahead.
- ▲ With the current U.S. administration being in favor of increased defense spending, macroeconomic environment in the nation has been boosting the company's growth prospects. In this regard, it is imperative to mention that the fiscal 2020 defense budget reflects a 5% improvement in spending levels from the fiscal 2019's budget. Such increased spending levels are expected to drive order growth for defense players like Leidos Holdings. This has also made the company's investors optimistic about its growth trajectory. Evidently, in a year's time, shares of the company have increased 52.5% against the industry's 31.1% decline.
- ▲ Leidos Holdings' strong balance sheet and a steady cash flow position offer it substantial financial flexibility. This, in turn, enables it to reward its shareholders with impressive dividend payouts and share repurchases. Notably, the company exited 2019 with $668 million in cash and equivalents on hand compared with $327 million as of Dec 28, 2018. It ended the year with cash flow from operating activities worth $992 million, up from $768 million at the end of 2018. Such solid cash flow reserve should allow Leidos Holdings to make future dividend hike, which, in turn, would attract investors.

Favorable Budgetary revisions, solid cash flow growth and solid contract inflows should keep Leidos' momentum alive

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ A comparative analysis of Leidos Holdings historical EV/SALES ratio reflects a relatively gloomy picture that might be a cause for investors' concern. Evidently, the stock has a forward 12-month EV/SALES ratio of 1.54 which remained above the industry's EV/SALES ratio of 1.32. This might be concerning for this stock's investors as higher EV/SALES value indicates that the company is more leveraged when compared to its whole industry.
- ▼ In the United States, Leidos Holdings faces intense competition for its broad portfolio of products and services. In particular, the company competes with well-recognized companies, financial resources and a larger technical staff. This, in turn, puts Leidos Holdings in a competitively disadvantageous position. Moreover, in recent times, some mega mergers and acquisition deals have been inked in the aerospace-defense space. Such consolidations tend to boost the power of newly build defense majors, threatening the profit generation capability of other players in the market like Leidos.
- ▼ As of Jan 3, 2020, indirect cost audits by the Defense Contract Audit Agency remain open for 2013 and subsequent years. Now, Leidos Holdings cannot predict the outcome of any ongoing or future audits. Management fears that if the future adjustments exceed the Company's estimates, its profitability may be adversely affected.

Fierce competition, unfavorable valuation and audit related expenses pose threat to this stock's growth

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

---

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	C
Growth Score	B
Momentum Score	D
VGM Score	B

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
