Summary

MercadoLibre reported impressive second quarter results wherein both earnings and revenues topped the estimates and grew year over year. Growing adoption of MercadoPago and robust mobile-point-of-sale business contributed well to the total payment volume growth. Rapid adoption of Mobile Wallet remained a tailwind. Also, strengthening online-to-offline offerings was positive. Additionally, solid momentum across free shipment program led to robust shipments growth via MercadoEnvios. The company remains optimistic about its fintech and logistics businesses. The stock has outperformed its industry on a year-to-date basis. However, rising expenses related to warehousing, free shipping subsidies and mPOS discounts do not bode well for margin expansion. Further, intensifying e-commerce competition remains a risk for the company's market position.

MercadoLibre Marketplace enables businesses and individuals to conduct sales, purchase online and list their merchandise.

MercadoLibre Classifieds offers online classified listing services for motor vehicles, real estate and services. These listing charge only optional placement fees and hence they are different from Marketplace listings.

MercadoPago FinTech platform allows users to send and receive payments seamlessly within MercadoLibre's marketplace. Outside of this, merchants are allowed to process payments via websites, mobile apps and mobile point of sale.

MercadoLibre advertising program enables advertisers and seller to display their product ads on the company's webpages.

MercadoEnvios logistics service provides integration with third-party carriers and logistics service providers to the sellers on the company's platform.

MercadoLibre has four reportable geographic segments— Brazil, Argentina, Mexico and Other Countries. In 2019, Brazil generated 63.6% of the company's revenues. Argentina, Mexico and Other Countries generated 19.9%, 12% and 4.5% of revenues, respectively.

Effective Dec 1, 2017, MercadoLibre deconsolidated its Venezuelan subsidiaries. The company no longer includes the balances, results of operations and cash flows of the Venezuelan subsidiaries in its consolidated financial statements.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ MercadoLibre is well positioned to take advantage of the changing ways in which people buy and sell. Being a well-established e-commerce player in Latin America, the company is well poised to take advantage of increasing Internet penetration. With its advanced technological and commercial solutions, MercadoLibre is capable of addressing typical cultural and geographic challenges associated with operating an online commerce platform in this part of the world.
- ▲ The company has designed its services in a manner that it can take advantage of synergies between them. MercadoLibre Marketplace is a fully-automated, user-friendly online commerce service that allows both businesses and individuals to list products and buy and sell online in both fixed-price and auction-based format. To complement this service, the company developed MercadoPago, an integrated online payments solution that provides merchants smooth checkout and payment processes on their websites and also allows users to transfer money to each other with ease through the website or MercadoPago App. Additionally, the company launched MercadoCredito in Argentina in 2016 designed to extend loans to specific merchants. Further, to improve its non-marketplace unit, the company developed MercadoLibre Classifieds Service, MercadoLibre advertising solution, MercadoShops and MercadoEnvios shipping program. MercadoLibre Classifieds Service is an online classified listing service that allows list and purchase vessels, aircraft, motor vehicles, real estate and services in all countries where the company operates. This service is a major source of traffic to the company's website. The advertising program allows businesses to promote their products and services on the company's webpages and associated vertical sites. MercadoShops is an online store solution that allows users to run their own online stores. MercadoEnvios is a shipping program that enables sellers to use the company's existing distribution chain to sell their products in a cost-efficient manner. These integrated services offer better cross-usage and gives users a strong reason to stick to the company's platform. The result is a growing user base which is positively impacting top-line growth. Additionally, the strengthening mobile wallet initiatives of the company are aiding its performance in all the major regions like Brazil, Argentina and Mexico.
- ▲ The company's focus on increasing monetization of transactions is a big positive. Its initiatives are helping it to maximize revenues it receives from transactions. These initiatives include increasing fee structure, selling advertising on its platform, offering other e-commerce services and expanding fee-based features.
- ▲ MercadoLibre has a strong balance sheet with cash and investments balance of $3.3 billion at the end of the second-quarter 2020 compared to $2.6 billion at the end of the first-quarter 2020. Further, the company has no current as well as long-term debt at present. The strong liquidity position will help the company pursue any strategic initiatives including acquisitions.

The company's integrated and synergized e-commerce services, growing user base, increasing monetization and strong financial position are positives.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ Margins are currently under pressure due to increased investments toward free shipping, loyalty programs and improvement in customer services, marketing, chargebacks, as well as higher maintenance, hosting and fraud prevention cost. Especially, free shipping and loyalty programs are currently at initial stages of deployment and will increasingly put pressure on margins as its deployment speeds up.
- ▼ MercadoLibre is exposed to high foreign exchange risk. The company operates in 18 different countries with different currencies and has to convert the money earned into dollars as required by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Thus, appreciation or depreciation of the U.S. dollar versus foreign currencies could severely impact the company's financial results.
- ▼ E-commerce, with a large user base worldwide, has turned out to be a sweet spot with more and more companies jumping on the bandwagon and further intensifying the competitive scenario. MercadoLibre faces tough competition from Amazon, Rakuten, Cnova, Aliexpress to name a few. Competition from brick-and-mortar stores such as Wal-Mart, Casas Bahia, Garbarino and Falabella are also increasing at a considerable rate. Lack of appropriate counter strategies could be a matter of worry in the long run.
- ▼ MercadoLibre's business segments experience seasonality. Fewer listings after Christmas, summer vacation and other holidays result in weaker demand in the first quarter. Year-end shopping season causes stronger demand in the fourth quarter. But the first quarter remains the weakest for the company in a year. The seasonality causes considerable fluctuations in revenues and profits and makes forecasting difficult.

Increased expenses, intensifying competition from Amazon and Wal-Mart, high foreign exchange risk and seasonality are major overhangs.

Last Earnings Report

Revenues surged 61.1% on a year-over-year basis (123.4% on an FX neutral basis) to $878.4 million. Moreover, the figure surpassed the Zacks Consensus Estimate of $790.8 million.

Additionally, increasing traffic and engagement rate by buyers on the company's online retail platform was a major positive. This increase can be attributed to boom in e-commerce space owing to the coronavirus-induced social distancing and stay-at-home restrictions.

Further, the company's rising gross merchandise volume (GMV), courtesy of accelerating mobile GMV, which contributed 69.4% to total GMV. Further, mobile GMV soared 272.8% year over year.

Also, strong momentum across free shipment program led to robust shipments growth via Mercado Envios during the reported quarter. Growing penetration of managed networks was also a tailwind.

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	F
Growth Score	D
Momentum Score	A
VGM Score	D

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
