Summary

Shares of Vail Resorts have outperformed the industry in the past year. However, shares of the company have declined considerably in the past three months, owing to the coronavirus outbreak. Rising expenses related to operations, acquisitions and pertinent weather-related woes continues to hurt profitability. Also, intense competition in ski resort and lodging industries is another concern. Notably, earning estimates for 2020 have declined in the past 30 days, depicting analyst's concern regarding the stock growth potential. However, increased focus on season pass program, along with mergers and acquisitions are likely to aid the company. Also, continuous efforts on digital marketing and media advertising are likely to boost traffic and sales in the coming periods.

The Real Estate segment (0.07%) owns, develops, and sells real estate in and around the company's resort communities.

Under the Resort segment, the company has Mountain and Lodging services, and other (constituting 81.5% of net revenues in the fiscal second quarter), and Mountain and Lodging retail and dining (18.5%).

Reasons To Buy:

▲ Impressive Top Line: Shares of Vail Resorts have outperformed the industry in the past year. The appreciation in share price can be attributed to the company's better-than-expected sales in four out of the trailing five quarters. The metric not only surpassed analysts' expectations but also grew on a year-over-year basis. The company's first-half fiscal 2020 revenues came in at $1.19 billion, reflecting an increase of 11.5% on a year-over-year basis. Total revenues were driven by growth across its business segments.

A strong season pass program, increased focus on acquisitions and mergers, along with efficient marketing efforts, bode well for Vail Resorts.

▲ Robust Season Pass Program: Vail Resorts has a season pass program under which the company offers a variety of season pass products for all the mountain resorts and urban ski areas in both domestic, and international markets. Increased demand for skiing has led the company to witness higher season pass sales lately. Notably, pass revenues increased 17.2% in second-quarter fiscal 2020, mainly attributable to increased pass product sales for the 2019/2020 North American ski season. It introduced Epic Day Pass (EDP) in 2019, which exceeded management's expectations, with the vast majority of sales coming from new pass holders and in destination markets. Vail Resorts also witnessed season pass sales increase across all products and geographies, including destination markets. The company has initiated 2020/2021 North American ski season, for which pass holders will receive 20% off on food and beverage, lodging, group ski and ride school lessons, equipment rentals and more, in turn creating incremental savings of potentially hundreds of dollars per day for a family of four.

▲ Marketing Efforts Drive Guest Loyalty: Robust growth in the season pass sales reflects Vail Resorts' efficient guest focused marketing efforts. The company orients its strategy with data analytics to drive targeted and personalized marketing toward guests. Guest data is captured through season pass programs; e-commerce platforms, including mobile lift ticket sales; the EpicMix application and operational processes at the lift ticket windows. Additionally, Vail Resorts involves in digital marketing, and media advertising to drive traffic and sales. The company's recently introduced EDP also expanded its guest traffic.

Meanwhile, the company has spent more than $1.2 billion over the last decade to drive guest loyalty. The company has also made significant investments in Colorado for its snowmaking systems at Vail, Beaver Creek and Keystone. Additionally, Vail Resorts has completed its full renovation of the Beaver Creek Children's Ski School facilities and the Peak eight base area at Breckenridge, with new ski school and childcare facilities. It has also completed one of its final stage of modernization project and has invested in technology to program its data-driven marketing efforts.

▲ Geographic Diversification to Counter Weather-Related Woes: Vail Resorts have widespread geographical boundaries. Apart from operations in the United States, the company has expanse in North America, Japan and Europe. By widely diversifying its geographical locations, Vail Resorts aims to cushion the business from weather inconsistencies. The company has also announced that it will expand 250-acre lift-served terrain in the signature McCoy Park area of Beaver Creek. It also intends to increase the seating capacity at the Rendezvous Lodge restaurant on Blackcomb Mountain, which will add 250 seats further enhancing the experience at North America's largest resort.

▲ Focus on Acquisitions: Vail Resorts extensively focuses on acquisitions and mergers to build a stronger portfolio of differentiated, and varied services. The company acquired a few mountain resorts, hotel properties and other businesses complementary to its own as well as developable land in proximity to its resorts. Vail Resorts had completed the acquisition of Peak Resorts for $11 per share on Sep 24, 2019. With the completion of this buyout, the company added 17 U.S. ski areas to its portfolio. The newly acquired resorts are located in the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic and the Midwest. Currently, the company has 37 owned and operated resorts worldwide.

Moreover, On Aug 15, 2018, the company acquired Stevens Pass Resort in Washington from Ski Resort Holdings, LLC, for $64 million. Additionally, on Sep 27, 2018, management acquired Triple Peaks, LLC, the parent company of Okemo Mountain Resort in Vermont; Crested Butte Mountain Resort in Colorado and Mount Sunapee Resort in New Hampshire for a cash price of roughly $74 million. Vail Resorts expects these acquisitions to positively contribute to the company's operating results going ahead.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ Guidance Pulled in Response to Coronavirus Uncertainty: As a result of coronavirus' uncertain impact on the broader U.S. travel market, particularly on Vail Resorts' operations, management withdrew its previous guidance issued on Jan 17, 2020.

Based on results through Mar 1, 2020 and indicators for the remainder of the year, excluding any direct impact from coronavirus, management indicated that fiscal 2020 Resort EBITDA would be $20 million below the midpoint of the guidance issued on Jan 17, 2020.

Coronavirus woes, high costs of operations, risks from mergers, competition and weather-related woes continue to hurt Vail Resorts.

- ▼ High Costs of Operations: Vail Resorts' operational efficiencies also come at the cost of increased expenses. During the first half of fiscal 2020, total segmental operating expenses increased 13.6% year over year to $894.6 million. Resort operating expenses totaled $887.8 million, up 13.1% year over year.
 - ▼ Challenges in Acquisition Strategies: While Vail Resorts' relentless acquisition and merger are likely to prove beneficial over the long term, there are certain short-term risks associated. Vail Resorts reported EBITDA loss of $76.7 million in the first quarter of fiscal 2020 compared with a negative $72.5 million a year ago. The company is somewhat struggling with added expenses, stemming from acquisitions. In the fiscal first and second quarters of 2020, resort EBITDA included acquisition and integration-related expenses worth $9 million and $1.9 million, respectively.
 - ▼ Competition Ails: The ski resort and lodging industries are highly competitive. There are roughly 470 ski areas in the United States that serve local, and destination guests. Resultantly, Vail Resorts face intense competition from other ski providers. Coming to the lodging industry, it is already known how an oversupply of hotels in the United States has given rise to a stiff competitive environment. Subsequently, the company faces heightened competition in its lodging business segment.
 - ▼ Overvalued Compared With Peers: Since the leisure service providers are debt-laden, it makes sense to value them based on the EV/EBITDA (Enterprise Value/ Earnings before Interest Tax Depreciation and Amortization) ratio. This is because the valuation metric takes into account not just its equity but also the level of debt on a company's balance sheet. For capital-intensive companies, the EV/EBITDA is a better valuation metric because it is unaffected by the changing capital structures and ignores effects of non-cash expenses on a company's value. The trailing 12-month EV/EBITDA ratio of Vail Resorts is 14.13, which is overvalued compared with the industry's 6.27 and the S&P 500's 11.23.
 - ▼ Weather-Related Woes: Vail Resorts' business is highly dependent on weather conditions. Particularly, the ski business directly depends on the amount and timing of snowfall. Unfavorable weather conditions can adversely affect skiers' visits and in turn hurt the company's revenues and profits. Unseasonably warm weather may also result in inadequate natural snowfall and reduce skiable terrain, which increases costs of snowmaking.

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	B
Growth Score	B
Momentum Score	C
VGM Score	B

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
