Summary

Norwegian Cruise's shares have underperformed the industry in the past year. Despite reporting better-than-expected earnings, the downtrend is likely to persist thanks to the coronavirus outbreak. Due to the coronavirus outbreak in China, the company has canceled, modified or redeployed 40 voyages. These are likely to hurt the company's earnings by 75 cents per share in 2020. Per management, 2020 results are likely to be materially impacted if apprehensions regarding the coronavirus continue to increase. Moreover, high costs, intense competition from other cruises and debt levels are potential concerns. Further, the company's exposure to negative currency translation is adding to woes. Earnings estimates for 2020 have declined in the past 30 days, which underscores analyst concern regarding the performance of the company.

Overview

Norwegian Cruise Line Holdings Ltd., a Bermuda Limited company, is a leading cruise line operator. It owns and operates three brands — Oceania Cruises, Regent Seven Seas Cruises and Norwegian Cruise Line. The company, founded in 1966, is headquartered in Miami, FL.

In 2014, the company acquired Prestige Cruises International, thereby expanding its operations significantly. Through this move, the company acquired the Oceania Cruises and Regent Seven Seas Cruises brands.

As of Dec 31, 2019, the three brands operate a total of 27 ships with 58,400 berths in Alaska, the Bahamas, Bermuda, the Caribbean, Europe, Hawaii, Mexico, New England, Central and South America, North Africa, Scandinavia among others.

The company is constantly looking to expand its fleet size. To this end, the company launched Norwegian Bliss in April 2018. Moreover, it introduced Norwegian Joy (cruise ship designed for Chinese travelers) in 2017. The ship, which can accommodate more than 3,500 passengers, started sailing from Shanghai in June 2017. It has plans to introduce 11 more ships through 2027. The company will receive the Norwegian Encore in fall 2019. The company has Allura Class Ships on order for delivery in the winter of 2022 and spring of 2025. With the project Leonardo, Norwegian Cruise will have an additional six ships with expected delivery dates from 2022 through 2027. This addition is likely to bring total berth count to roughly 82,000.

In a bid to facilitate travel for cruise passengers, the brands strive to provide an enhanced level of onboard service. To this end, they offer a wide range of features, amenities and activities like a variety of accommodations and multiple dining venues.

Revenues from passenger tickets account for bulk of the top line (70% in 2019) at Norwegian Cruise Line. Balance (30%) comes from onboard and other sources.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Fleet Size Expansion Encourages: Norwegian Cruise is constantly looking to expand fleet size, which is currently at 26, following the launch of Norwegian Bliss in April 2018. It has plans to introduce 11 more ships through 2027. Most of them are on order for Norwegian Cruise Line, while the rest are for Oceania Cruises and Regent Seven Seas Cruises. Moreover, it introduced Norwegian Joy (cruise ship designed for Chinese travelers) in 2017. The ship, which can accommodate more than 3,500 passengers, started sailing from Shanghai in June 2017. It has plans to introduce 11 more ships through 2027. The Company will take delivery of Norwegian Encore, in fall 2019. The company has Allura Class Ships on order for delivery in the winter of 2022 and spring of 2025. With the project Leonardo, Norwegian Cruise will have an additional six ships with expected delivery dates from 2022 through 2027. This addition is likely to take the total berth count to roughly 82,000.
- Strong demand and modest capacity growth bode well for Norwegian Cruise. Higher yield and fleet-expansion efforts are enabling the company to gain traction.
- ▲ Overall Booking & Capacity Growth Shaping Up Well: Higher demand for cruises has led Norwegian Cruise to expect a record book position in 2019. The company has particularly worked in improving book revenues. It has changed its payment policies and deposit structure, which is driving revenues. Also, air travel services booked through Norwegian's Air program is significantly boosting demand. In the third quarter of 2019, revenues increased 3% year over year on increase in net yield owing to repositioning of Norwegian Joy to North America and robust growth in organic pricing across all core markets. Strong onboard spending also had positive bearings on its quarterly revenues.
- Coming to supply, the company has been able to successfully absorb new capacity that are coming online. Also, expansion of fleet enables the company to capture greater demand. Meanwhile, capacity growth is primarily generated from Norwegian Encore.
- The company's focus on the lucrative Chinese market is highly encouraging. To this end, the company announced a partnership with Alibaba Group in May 2017. The company introduced Norwegian Joy (cruise ship designed for Chinese travelers) in 2017. The ship, which can accommodate more than 3,500 passengers, started sailing from Shanghai in June 2017. In fact, by 2020, China's cruise market is projected to grow to 4.5 million passengers, up from 1 million in 2015, per data from the Chinese Ministry of Transport. By 2030, China is expected to become the world's second largest cruise market after the United States.
- During the third quarter 2019, the company's performance in Alaska was boosted by the addition of the Norwegian Joy. Along with sister ship Norwegian Bliss, Norwegian Joy enabled the company to capture the growing and profitable region in Alaska. With the help of strategic initiatives around itinerary optimization, particularly in Alaska and Europe, capacity in the third quarter 2019 increased by 17% and 13%, respectively. Also the conversion of Cuba sailings to Bahamas-only sailings resulted in a 110 basis point drag on net yield.
- ▲ High Onboard Spend & Net Yield Growth: Norwegian Cruise is highly benefitting from higher onboard spend. The company's onboard revenue performance has continued to exceed expectations. This provided benefits to customers that come under the Norwegian brand's Free at Sea go-to-market strategy. Also, pre-booking offshore excursions highly aided the onboard spend. In the third quarter, onboard and other revenues rose 3.1% from the year-ago quarter's number. Gross yield (total revenue per Capacity Day) grew 4.8% in the quarter on a year-over-year basis. The company is also seeing high net yields, courtesy of higher onboard spend. On a constant-currency basis, net yield rose 3.9% in the third quarter. The metric moved up 3.3% on a reported basis. For 2019, net yield is expected to be 3%.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ Coronavirus Outbreak to Hurt results: Due to the coronavirus outbreak in China, the company has canceled, modified or redeployed 40 voyages, which include 24 voyages on Norwegian Cruise Line, 10 on Oceania Cruises and six on Regent Seven Seas Cruises. The company stated that it will not have any vessels deployed in Asia through the end of third-quarter 2020. The aforementioned factor is expected to impact 2020 adjusted earnings by 75 cents per share. Per management, 2020 results are likely to be materially impacted if apprehensions regarding the coronavirus continue to increase.
- ▼ Increasing Costs Hurt: Norwegian Cruise is bearing the brunt of high expenses for quite some time. Fuel costs and net cruise costs are rising persistently. Moreover, by strengthening the international fourth quarter 2019, total cruise operating expenses increased 8.6% in the quarter under review from the year-ago quarter. The increase can be attributed to redeployment of Norwegian Joy and rise in direct costs owing to air promotions. Gross cruise costs per capacity day rose 5.6%. Adjusted Net cruise costs (excluding fuel) per Capacity Day increased 4% at cc and 3.4% on a reported basis. Fuel price per metric ton (net of hedges) was up 2.4% to $508 in the quarter under review.
- ▼ Debt Burden: The company's heavy reliance on debt financing is a concern. As of Dec 31 2019, cash and cash equivalents totaled $252.9 million. Long-term debt at the end of the fourth quarter totaled $6.1 billion, higher than $5.8 billion at the end of 2018. Due to high debt burden, the company might fail to finance upcoming projects. Moreover, any downturn in macroeconomic and credit market conditions would make it difficult for Norwegian Cruise to pay or refinance debt moving ahead.
- ▼ Currency & Other Macro Economic Headwinds: Norwegian Cruise is heavily investing in China, where a slowdown in the economy could limit discretionary spending. In fact, the rate of capacity growth in the Asia Pacific region is expected to slow considerably in the near term for the company and the industry. Further, in Europe, economic/political conditions are expected to be somewhat challenging after U.K.'s exit from the 28-member economic bloc.

High costs, debt burden and the coronavirus outbreak in China remain potential concerns.

Also, the company generates a significant amount of its revenues from customers outside the United States where the majority pay with local currency. Hence, the company is highly exposed to the impact of negative currency translation. Thus, if the U.S. dollar continues to strengthen versus the company's basket of currencies, it is likely to prove detrimental to the company's earnings growth. Moreover, an increase in fuel prices may further hamper the company's performance. Meanwhile, Trump administration's policy change on travel to Cuba is concerning. Travel ban to Cuba will impact the cruise industry.

Norwegian Cruise Q4 Earnings Top, Covid-19 Clouds View

Norwegian Cruise has reported better-than-expected fourth-quarter 2019 results. The company's earnings and revenues surpassed the Zacks Consensus Estimate for the fourth consecutive quarter.

Earnings & Revenue Discussion

Adjusted earnings of 73 cents per share surpassed the Zacks Consensus Estimate of 70 cents. However, the bottom line declined 14.1% from the year-ago quarter.

Revenues amounted to $1,480.6 million in the fourth quarter, surpassing the consensus mark of $1,431 million and improving 7.2% year over year. The top line was driven by an increase of 3.4% in passenger ticket revenues and rise of 15.8% in onboard and other revenues.

Strong onboard spending had a positive impact on the reported quarter's revenues as well. Moreover, an increase in capacity days with the addition of Norwegian Encore to the fleet drove the top line.

Gross yield (total revenues per Capacity Day) rose 4% in the quarter on a year-over-year basis. On a constant-currency (cc) basis, net yield rose 1.3% in the reported quarter.

Expenses & Operating Results

Total cruise operating expenses increased 8.6% in the quarter under review from the year-ago quarter. The increase can be attributed to redeployment of Norwegian Joy and rise in direct costs owing to air promotions.

Gross cruise costs per capacity day rose 5.6%. Adjusted Net cruise costs (excluding fuel) per Capacity Day increased 4% at cc and 3.4% on a reported basis. Fuel price per metric ton (net of hedges) was up 2.4% to $508 in the quarter under review.

Net interest expenses were $73.2 million in the fourth quarter, down from $68.2 million in the year-ago quarter.

Balance Sheet

Cash and cash equivalents as of Dec 31, 2019, were $252.9 million, up from $163.9 million as of Dec 31, 2018. Long-term debt at the end of the fourth quarter totaled $6.1 billion, higher than $5.8 billion at the end of 2018.

Coronavirus to Hurt Q1 & 2020 Results

Due to the coronavirus outbreak in China, the company has canceled, modified or redeployed 40 voyages, which include 24 voyages on Norwegian Cruise Line, 10 on Oceania Cruises and six on Regent Seven Seas Cruises. The company stated that it will not have any vessels deployed in Asia through the end of third-quarter 2020.

The aforementioned factor is expected to impact 2020 adjusted earnings by 75 cents per share. Per management, 2020 results are likely to be materially impacted if apprehensions regarding the coronavirus continue to increase.

For first-quarter 2020, Norwegian Cruise expects adjusted earnings to be nearly 48 cents. Net yield is expected to increase 0.25% at cc. The company expects net cruise costs (excluding Fuel per Capacity Day) to be 4.5% at cc.

For 2020, the company expects adjusted earnings per share in the range of $5.40 to $5.60. The Zacks Consensus Estimate for 2020 earnings is at $5.49, slightly below the mid-point of the company's guidance of $5.5 per share.

Net yield is expected to be in the range of 2-3%. Meanwhile adjusted net cruise costs are anticipated to be nearly 1.25% at cc.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.
