Summary

Phillips 66's fourth-quarter earnings deteriorated significantly year over year. The underperformance is owing to soft refining margins. Notably, the company's refining operations reported adjusted pre-tax profit of $345 million, down from the year-ago quarter's $2,008 million, primarily due to higher costs pertaining to turnaround activities. Importantly, the segment's realized refining margins worldwide fell to $9.50 per barrel from the year-ago quarter's $16.53 per barrel. Moreover, seasonally lower sales volumes and decline in polyethylene margins have been hurting the company's Chemicals business. A rise in maintenance costs & higher turnaround activities have also been affecting the business unit. Additionally, the stock fell 23% in the past six months against the industry's 15.2% decline.

Overview

Based in Houston, TX, Phillips 66's operations incorporate refining, midstream, marketing and specialties, and chemicals. The company, in its current form, came into existence following the 2012 spin-off of ConocoPhillips' downstream business into a separate, independent and publicly-traded entity. The company's operations include processing, transportation, storing and marketing fuels and products all over the world. Phillips 66 Partners, the company's master limited partnership, is an important asset in the portfolio. As of Sep 30, 2019, Phillips 66 had about 14,500 employees and $59 billion of assets. The company operates through the four business segments, namely, Midstream, Chemicals, Refining, and Marketing and Specialties.

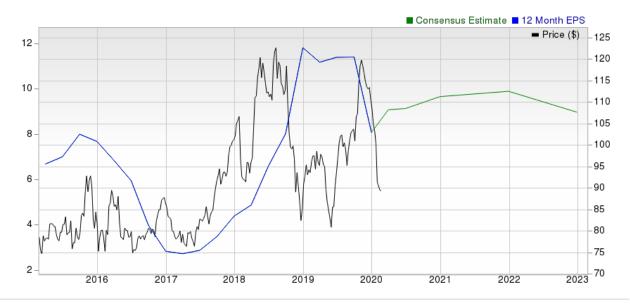

- Refining accounted for 40% of total quarterly earnings buys, sells and refines crude oil and other feedstocks at its refineries. The company owns interest in 13 refineries located in the United States and in Europe.
- Marketing and Specialties with contributions of 28% to total earnings purchases for resale and markets refined products, mainly in the United States and Europe. In addition, this segment includes the manufacturing and marketing of specialty products.

Reasons To Sell:

▼ Adjusted pre-tax profit of $345 million from the company's refining operations declined from the year-ago quarter's $2,008 million. This underperformance can be attributed to higher costs pertaining to turnaround activities and weak margins. Notably, the segment's realized refining margins worldwide fell to $9.50 per barrel from the year-ago quarter's $16.53 per barrel. Phillips 66 is being affected by significant decline in worldwide refining margins.

- ▼ Although Phillips 66 is strongly committed in constantly returning capital to shareholders through dividend payments, the stock has mostly paid lower dividends than the industry in the past year.
- ▼ With the phase-one trade agreement solving a few concerns for the United States, there are many more to be addressed, which raise the possibility of an escalation of the trade war. The threat to economic growth might hurt the company's refining businesses.
- ▼ Seasonally lower sales volumes and a decline in polyethylene margins have been hurting the company's Chemicals business. A rise in maintenance costs and higher turnaround activities have also been affecting the business segment.

Risks

- The company is on track to enhance its potential in every business segment by streamlining its portfolio of assets and by investing in growth developments.
- Midstream business is in high demand in the United States as there is a huge need for fresh pipeline and infrastructure properties in the flourishing shales owing to the existing bottleneck problems. To capitalize on the trend, the company allocated majority of its capital budget for midstream operations.
- The company is strongly committed in returning cash back to the shareholders through both dividend payments and repurchasing shares.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.
