Summary

Shares of PVH Corp have increased in the past three months. The company is benefiting from the phased reopening of stores, which is likely to cushion top lines. It earlier predicted to reopen nearly 85% of its stores by the mid-June. Further, it expects the impressive e-commerce sales in first-quarter fiscal 2020 owing to COVID-19 related store closures to continue. Moreover, management remains confident about the underlying power of the Calvin Klein and Tommy Hilfiger brands. However, temporary store closures globally for about six weeks during the onset of the pandemic hurt fiscal first quarter results. Both top and bottom lines declined year over year. Management predicts the pandemic to continue weighing on the second quarter and fiscal 2020 results. Moreover, a drab Heritage Brands segment and soft margins are concerns.

Reasons To Buy:

▲ Store Reopening Efforts Bode Well: With almost all stores closed since Mar 17, PVH Corp is now gearing up to reopen stores in a phased manner, with a market-by-market approach with adherence to the government guidelines. In this regard, the company has reopened roughly 180 company-operated stores across all brands in North America, 350 in Europe, 1,000 in Asia, 75 in Australia and four in Brazil as on May 19. Going ahead, management expects more than 85% of stores to reopen globally by mid-June. Shares of PVH Corp increased 33.3% in the past three months compared with the industry's rally of 39%.

PVH Corp. has witnessed impressive e-commerce sales during first-quarter fiscal 2020 as customers shifted to online purchases amid the pandemic. Also, its store reopening efforts appear encouraging.

▲ Efficient Brand Management Approach: PVH Corp's diversified brand portfolio allows it to stay ahead of its peers to generate above-average industry growth and sustain its position in the current challenging environment. The company's approach to brand management facilitates each of its brands to develop further through effective marketing strategies, financial control and operating leverage. Based on the strength of many of its brands, particularly Tommy Hilfiger, coupled with opportunities with regard to distribution, we believe that the company is poised for long-term growth. Going forward, management remains confident about the underlying power of Calvin Klein and Tommy Hilfiger brands, which position the company's business to succeed amid the ever-changing consumer landscape.

▲ Solid E-Commerce Sales Reflects Strength: PVH Corp has been witnessing impressive performance in digital platform as its global store fleet remained closed amid the COVID-19 pandemic and customers shifted to online purchases. E-commerce sales improved 40% year over year during first-quarter fiscal 2020 driven by robust growth in all regions. Calvin's online sales in North America generated a quarterly profit for the first time in its history. Further, it gained customer attention in Southeast Asia from the partnership with Tmall, which featured virtual exhibit for CK One product drop and CK One Tmall Club Day. Similarly, the company rolled out e-commerce collaboration with Zalando in Europe in June.

Apart from these, all new product launches and collaborations were redirected to e-commerce platform. It also hosted a shoppable livestream event across North America and Europe at the Tommy Hilfiger website. Additionally, it has launched Calvin Klein Pride campaign - #PROUDINMYCALVINS. Moreover, Van Heusen and IZOD unveiled the new Heritage Brands corporate-responsibility platform on their websites. Moreover, the company expects overall digital penetration to increase throughout 2020.

▲ Financial Flexibility: PVH Corp's ended first-quarter fiscal 2020 with total debt of $2,854.2 million which reflects nearly 6% rise on a sequential basis. Also, its debt-to-capitalization ratio of 0.51 represents a significant sequential increase from 0.44 as of May 3, 2020. However, the debt-to-capitalization ratio compares favorably with the industry's ratio of 0.61. Moreover, the company had cash balance of approximately $800 million along with a revolving credit facility of $1 billion as of the end of the fiscal first quarter. This provides the company with the financial flexibility to drive growth. Additionally, management suspended share repurchases and cash dividends to preserve cash amid the pandemic. Prior to this, it repurchased roughly $110 million and paid out dividends of 37.5 cents on Mar 31. Capital expenditure was lowered to nearly $190 million for fiscal 2020 from $345 million in fiscal 2019. Apart from these, it has entered 364 day revolving credit facility of $275 million. Also, PVH Corp boasts a liquidity of $1.8 billion as on May 3, 2020, which will help it stay afloat during this crisis.

Reasons To Sell:

▼ Soft Q1 Results: PVH Corp posted dismal results for first-quarter fiscal 2020, wherein both top and bottom lines declined year over year. Results were affected by temporary store closures globally for about six weeks since the onset of the coronavirus. Notably, revenues declined 43% and 42% on a reported and constant currency basis, respectively, during the fiscal first quarter. Sluggish performance in all its segments hurt the top line. Further, revenues at its retail stores declined roughly 50-65% year over year due to temporary store closures and soft traffic before that. Moreover, wholesale revenues fell 41% as store closures led to a significant reduction in shipments. Meanwhile, store closures led the company's digital sales to rise 47% year over year with solid growth in all regions. Notably, sturdy demand for Tommy Hilfiger and Calvin Klein brands across all regions led to a double-digit to triple-digit rise in digital sales.

PVH Corp's Q1 results were affected by temporary store closures of the global fleet for about six weeks since the onset of the coronavirus. It refrained from providing fiscal 2020 guidance.

Going ahead, management predicts the ongoing pandemic to weigh on the second quarter and fiscal 2020 results. It also anticipates second-quarter revenues to witness a more pronounced impact of the pandemic on a sequential basis. As a result, the company refrained from providing fiscal 2020 guidance.

▼ Streamline North America Business, Exit Heritage Brands: PVH Corp. has increased its focus on streamlining the North American business owing to the tough retail environment. The company has decided to exit its Heritage Brands Retail unit by closing 162 stores. Notably, the unit accounted for 2.6% of its total revenues in 2019. This will lower the company's headcount by 12% across all three brands — Calvin Klein, Tommy Hilfiger and Heritage Brands. The aforementioned store closures are likely to take place by mid-2021. Also, the store closures are expected to incur roughly $80 million of pre-tax costs, out of which nearly $10 million is projected to be non-cash.

Notably, Heritage Brands Retail business, with a product portfolio of Van Heusen, Izod, Arrow, Warner's, Olga and Geoffrey Beene, has failed to generate profits for a while now. In first-quarter fiscal 2020, the Heritage Brands segment's revenues fell 47% year over year, primarily owing to a rise in accounts receivable write-offs and inventory reserves, and deleveraging of expenses.

▼ Weak Margins A Concern: PVH Corp has been witnessing dismal margins for the past few quarters, which was aggravated by the coronavirus pandemic. Notably, total gross profit decreased nearly 49% to $665.9 million, while gross margin contracted 550 basis points to 49.5%. Adjusted loss before interest and taxes was $247 million against earnings before interest and taxes of $267 million in the prior-year quarter. The downside can be attributable to a dismal top-line performance stemming from COVID-19 impacts and adverse impacts of accounts receivable write-offs and inventory reserves to the tune of $97 million. Going ahead, any further decline in margins may hurt the company's bottom line in the near term.

▼ Macroeconomic Headwinds May Dampen Performance: Consumer confidence and spending behavior may dampen due to macroeconomic factors including an increase in fuel and energy costs, credit availability, high unemployment levels, and high household debt levels, which can negatively affect the disposable income of consumers. Additionally, management assumes a competitive and promotional macro landscape.

PVH Corp to Exit Heritage Brands, Cut Jobs in North America – Jul 14, 2020

In the face of a tough retail environment, thanks to the coronavirus pandemic, PVH Corp. has increased its focus on streamlining the North American business. The company has decided to exit its Heritage Brands Retail unit by closing 162 stores. Notably, the unit accounted for 2.6% of its total revenues in 2019. This will lower the company's headcount by 12% across all three brands — Calvin Klein, Tommy Hilfiger and Heritage Brands. The aforementioned store closures are likely to take place by mid-2021. Also, the store closures are expected to incur roughly $80 million of pre-tax costs, out of which nearly $10 million is projected to be non-cash. However, these structural changes are anticipated to generate cost savings of $80 million annually. Sources believe that the move came after the sudden softness in the apparel industry, with consumers sticking to budget buys amid these trying times. Industry experts have welcomed this step as the Heritage Brands Retail business, with a strong product portfolio of Van Heusen, Izod, Arrow, Warner's, Olga and Geoffrey Beene, has failed to generate profits.

Zacks Stock Rating System

We offer two rating systems that take into account investors' holding horizons: Zacks Rank and Zacks Recommendation. Each provides valuable insights into the future profitability of the stock and can be used separately or in combination with each other depending on your investment style.

Zacks Recommendation

The Zacks Recommendation aims to predict performance over the next 6 to 12 months. The foundation for the quantitatively determined Zacks Recommendation is trends in the company's estimate revisions and earnings outlook. The Zacks Recommendation is broken down into 3 Levels; Outperform, Neutral and Underperform. Unlike many Wall Street firms, we have an excellent balance between the number of Outperform and Neutral recommendations. Our team of 70 analysts are fully versed in the benefits of earnings estimate revisions and how that is harnessed through the Zacks quantitative rating system. But we have given our analysts the ability to override the Zacks Recommendation for the 1200 stocks that they follow. The reason for the analyst over-rides is that there are often factors such as valuation, industry conditions and management effectiveness that a trained investment professional can spot better than a quantitative model.

Zacks Rank

The Zacks Rank is our short-term rating system that is most effective over the one- to three-month holding horizon. The underlying driver for the quantitatively-determined Zacks Rank is the same as the Zacks Recommendation, and reflects trends in earnings estimate revisions.

Zacks Style Scores

The Zacks Style Score is as a complementary indicator to the Zacks rating system, giving investors a way to focus on the highest rated stocks that best fit their own stock picking preferences.

Academic research has proven that stocks with the best Value, Growth and Momentum characteristics outperform the market. The Zacks Style Scores rate stocks on each of these individual styles and assigns a rating of A, B, C, D and F. We also produce the VGM Score (V for Value, G for Growth and M for Momentum), which combines the weighted average of the individual Style Scores into one score. This is perfectly suited for those who want their stocks to have the best scores across the board.

Value Score	D
Growth Score	F
Momentum Score	B
VGM Score	F

As an investor, you want to buy stocks with the highest probability of success. That means buying stocks with a Zacks Recommendation of Outperform, which also has a Style Score of an A or a B.
