Summary

Simon Property announced that it temporarily closed down its domestic properties in an effort to reduce the spread of coronavirus in its communities. The company also fortified its balance-sheet strength by amending and extending its existing $4-billion senior unsecured multi-currency revolving credit facility with a $6-billion senior unsecured credit facility and will enjoy a cheaper line of credit. With a strong balance sheet, the company is poised to gain from new development, redevelopment, expansion and acquisition efforts. However, store closures and bankruptcies keep retail real estate market choppy. Also, the recent coronavirus outbreak is likely to keep retail REITs on tenterhooks as consumers are adhering to social distancing and staying indoors. Furthermore, its shares have underperformed the industry over the past year.

Overview

Headquartered in Indianapolis, IN, Simon Property Group Inc. is a leading publicly-traded real estate investment trust (REIT) in the United States, which is engaged in acquiring, owning and leasing of shopping, dining, entertainment and mixed-use destinations. The company's real estate portfolio consists of Malls, Premium Outlets and The Mills and International Properties.

As of Dec 31, 2019, Simon Property owned or held interests in 204 properties in the United States. This comprises 106 malls, 69 Premium Outlets, 14 Mills, four lifestyle centers, and 11 other retail properties in 37 states and Puerto Rico. As of the same date, the company had ownership in 29 Premium Outlets and Designer Outlet properties mainly located in Asia, Europe, and Canada. Additionally, the company had 22.2% equity stake in Klépierre, a publicly-traded French real estate company that owns interest in shopping centers across 15 countries in Europe.

On Feb 10, Simon Property Group agreed to acquire Taubman Centers in a deal valued at $3.6 billion. Simon Property will buy an 80% ownership stake in The Taubman Realty Group Limited Partnership ("TRG"). Simon Property will acquire all of Taubman common stock for $52.50 per share in cash. Moreover, the Taubman family will sell one-third of its ownership interest at the transaction price and remain a 20% partner in TRG. Subject to a number of approvals as well as other customary closing conditions, this transaction is expected to close in mid-2020.

Moreover, on Feb 19, Authentic Brands Group (ABG), Simon Property and Brookfield Property Partners announced the acquisition of fast fashion retailer, Forever 21, which had filed for bankruptcy earlier. The companies have struck a partnership, under which ABG and Simon Property will each own 37.5%, and Brookfield will own 25% of the intellectual property and operating businesses.

Note: All EPS numbers presented in this report represent FFO per share. FFO, a widely used metric to gauge the performance of REITs, is obtained after adding depreciation and amortization and other non-cash expenses to net income.

Reasons To Buy:

- ▲ Simon Property enjoys a wide exposure to retail assets across the United States. Moreover, the company's international presence fosters sustainable long-term growth as compared with its domestically focused peers. The company's ownership stake in Klépierre facilitates the expansion of its global footprint, which gives it access to premium retail assets in the high barrier-to-entry markets of Europe. We believe that diversification, with respect to both product and geography largely insulates Simon Property from market volatility and helps it to consistently post a decent performance.
- ▲ Amid retail apocalypse narrative, adoption of an omni-channel strategy and successful tie-ups with premium retailers has been a saving grace for Simon Property. The company has been actively restructuring its portfolio, aiming at premium acquisitions and transformative redevelopments. In fact, for the past years, the company has been investing in billions to transform its properties focused on creating value and drive footfall at the properties. The transformational plans include addition of hotels, restaurants, residences and luxury stores. Additionally, the company is undertaking strategic measures to help online retailers fortify their physical presence. Moreover, the company's online retail platform, weaved with an omni-channel strategy, will likely be accretive to Simon Property's long-term growth. Also, Simon Property is exploring mixed-use development option which has gained immense popularity in recent years as it helps catch the attention of people who prefer to live, work and play in the same area. Its investments in best-in-class operators across the hospitality, health and wellness, dining and entertainment sectors, as part of its effort to bolster its consumer-facing entertainment and lifestyle platform augur well for long-term growth.
- ▲ A couple of recent moves of Simon Property are encouraging. Particularly, on Feb 10, the company announced that it has agreed to acquire Taubman Centers in a deal valued at $3.6 billion. For Simon Property, the deal is expected to be at least 3% accretive to its FFO per share on an annualized basis, starting immediately upon consummation of the transaction. Moreover, ABG, Simon Property and Brookfield Property Partners recently announced the acquisition of fast fashion retailer, Forever 21, which had filed for bankruptcy. The companies have struck a partnership, under which ABG and Simon Property will each own 37.5%, while Brookfield will own 25% of the intellectual property and operating businesses. Similar to that of the Aéropostale's move earlier, the latest efforts are expected to aid Forever 21 stores continue operating across the United States and international territories. This LA-born brand is a global fashion retailer of women's, men's, and kid's clothing, accessories, and footwear, as well as beauty.
- ▲ The company has been active in restructuring its portfolio and is aiming at premium acquisitions and transformative redevelopments. In fact, at the end of fourth-quarter 2019, Simon Property had redevelopment and expansion projects, including the redevelopment of former department store spaces, ongoing at more than 30 properties in the United States, Asia and Europe. The company's share of costs of all new development and redevelopment projects under construction was $1.8 billion at the end of the quarter. The company has also resorted to micro-retail modeling that offers store units ranging from 20-200 square feet of space. With such a huge pipeline, the company is well poised to effectively leverage the improving spending habits of wealthier customers amid a healthy economy.
- ▲ Simon Property has a solid and improving balance sheet. The company had more than $7.1 billion of liquidity as of Dec 31, 2019. This comprised cash on hand, including available capacity under the company's revolving credit facilities, and its share of joint-venture cash. Moreover, in March, the company announced that it has fortified its balance-sheet strength by amending and extending the company's existing $4-billion senior unsecured multi-currency revolving credit facility with a $6-billion senior unsecured credit facility. As a result, the company will enjoy a cheaper line of credit. Moreover, the total credit capacity of the company stands at $9.5 billion, when this refinanced $6-billion facility is combined with the existing $3.5-billion senior unsecured credit facility. With a solid balance sheet, the company has ample scope to deploy capital for long-term growth opportunities.
- ▲ Finally, solid dividend payouts are arguably the biggest enticement for REIT shareholders and Simon Property remains committed to that. Concurrent with its second-quarter 2019 earnings release, the company announced a quarterly dividend of $2.10 per share, denoting an increase of 2.4% sequentially and 5% year over year. Thereafter, the company has maintained the same dividend rate. In fact, the company has steadily raised its dividend over the past years, increasing from $3.50 in 2011 to the present annualized rate of $8.40 per share. Such moves boost investors' confidence in the stock.

Simon Property's exposure to retail assets in the United States and abroad, efforts to support omni-channel retailing, portfolio-restructuring initiatives and healthy balance sheet augur well.

Reasons To Sell:

- ▼ With the shift in consumers' preferences toward online channels for purchases, bankruptcies and store closures have emerged as pressing concerns for retail REITs and Simon Property is not immune to such choppy environment. Though the company is striving to counter this pressure through various initiatives, implementation of such measures requires a decent upfront cost and therefore, will limit any robust growth in profit margins in the near term.
- ▼ Moreover, the recent coronavirus outbreak is likely to keep retail REITs on tenterhooks as consumers are adhering to social distancing and staying indoors. In fact, in an effort to reduce the spread of coronavirus in its communities, Simon Property has decided to close all of its retail properties, including Malls, Premium Outlets and Mills in the United States till Mar 29. Also, the overall impact on the economy and its magnitude is uncertain currently and demand for retailers' goods is likely to be affected in the upcoming period, which in turn, will likely drag the performance of the retail real estate market.
- ▼ At the end of fourth-quarter 2019, Simon Property had redevelopment and expansion projects, including the redevelopment of former department store spaces, ongoing at more than 30 properties in the United States, Asia and Europe. The company's share of costs of all new development and redevelopment projects under construction was around $1.8 billion at the end of the reported quarter. This increases operational risks, exposing the company to rising construction costs, entitlement delays and lease-up risks.
- ▼ Shares of Simon Property have declined 63% in the past year, as against the industry's decline of 29.5%. Moreover, the trend in 2020 FFO per share estimate revisions does not indicate an favorable outlook for the company, as estimates have moved 5.6% lower over the past month. Therefore, given the above-mentioned concerns and downward estimate revisions, there is limited upside potential to the stock.

Shrinking footfall at malls amid shift of consumers toward online channels, store closures and bankruptcy of retailers will likely keep denting any robust growth of the company in the near term.

Simon Property Q4 FFO & Revenues Beat Estimates, NOI Up

Simon Property's fourth-quarter 2019 FFO per share of $2.96 surpassed the Zacks Consensus Estimate of $2.95. However, the reported tally comes in 8.4% lower than the year-ago quarter's FFO of $3.23 per share.

Results reflected increase in leasing spread per square foot at the company's U.S. malls and Premium Outlets.

Further, the company generated revenues of nearly $1.49 billion in the quarter, outpacing the Zacks Consensus Estimate of $1.47 billion. The revenue figure also comes in 1.9% higher than the prior-year quarter's reported tally.

For full-year 2019, the FFO per share came in at $12.04, matching the Zacks Consensus Estimate but lower than the prior-year tally of $12.13. Moreover, revenues witnessed 1.9% year-over-year growth to $5.7 billion.

Inside the Headline Numbers

For the U.S. Malls and Premium Outlets portfolio, occupancy was 95.1% as of Dec 31, 2019. Retailer sales per square foot came in at $693 for the trailing 12-month period, marking 4.8% growth. Base minimum rent per square feet was $54.59 as of Dec 31, 2019. Furthermore, leasing spread per square foot for the trailing 12-month period ended Dec 31, 2019 increased 14.4% to $7.83.

Total portfolio net operating income (NOI) growth for the reported quarter came in at 1.7%. Comparable-property NOI growth for the same period came in at 1.7%.

At the end of fourth-quarter 2019, Simon Property had redevelopment and expansion projects, including the redevelopment of former department store spaces, ongoing at more than 30 properties in the United States, Asia and Europe. The company's share of costs of all new development and redevelopment projects under construction was around $1.8 billion at the end of the reported quarter.

Balance-Sheet Position

The company exited 2019 with cash and cash equivalents of $669.4 million compared with the $514.3 million reported at the end of December 2018.

Notably, during the October-December, the company accomplished a three-tranche senior notes offering, aggregating $3.5 billion, having a weighted average coupon rate of 2.61% and weighted average term of 15.9 years. Moreover, it retired all or part of four series of senior notes totaling around $2.6 billion (USD equivalent).

Simon Property had more than $7.1 billion of liquidity as of Dec 31, 2019. This comprised cash on hand, including available capacity under the company's revolving credit facilities, and its share of joint-venture cash.

Outlook

Simon Property expects 2020 FFO per share in the range of $12.25-$12.40.

Recent News

Simon Shuts Domestic Properties to Contain Coronavirus Outbreak - Mar 18, 2020

In an effort to reduce the spread of coronavirus in its communities, Simon Property has decided to close all of its retail properties, including Malls, Premium Outlets and Mills in the United States till Mar 29.

The move follows the terming of the coronavirus as a pandemic. The number of infected patients in the United States continues to spike, while the spread of the virus outside of mainland China continues. Therefore, after discussions with federal, state and local officials, the company has opted for temporary closure of all its domestic properties.

Simon Property Enhances Credit Facility, Lowers Cost of Debt - Mar 16, 2020

Simon Property fortified its balance-sheet strength by amending and extending the company's existing $4-billion senior unsecured multi-currency revolving credit facility with a $6-billion senior unsecured credit facility.

The latest facility comprises a $4-billion multi-currency revolving credit facility and a $2-billion delayed draw term loan facility. The amended facility has the feature that enables Simon Property to avail an expansion of the total amount facilities up to $7 billion in the shape of additional revolving commitments and/or additional term loans.

While the maturity date for the revolving facility is Jun 30, 2024, and Jun 30, 2022 for the term, there are provisions to extend the maturity date of each facility for a period of up to one year. Also, funds from the revolving facility can be withdrawn in currencies, including U.S. dollars, Euro, yen, Sterling Canadian Dollars and Australian Dollars.

As a result of the above-mentioned move, the company will enjoy a cheaper line of credit, in turn, reducing annualized interest expense. Specifically, pricing under the facility has been slashed by 7.5 basis points (bps) and is currently at LIBOR plus 70 bps. The pricing also depends on the company's public debt ratings.

The move will also improve the company's financial flexibility. The total credit capacity of the company stands at $9.5 billion, when this refinanced $6-billion facility is combined with the existing $3.5-billion senior unsecured credit facility. With a solid balance sheet, the company has ample scope to deploy capital for long-term growth opportunities.

Simon Formally Begins Tulsa Premium Outlets' Construction - Feb 27, 2020

Simon Property hosted a construction kick-off event for Tulsa Premium Outlets in Jenks, OK. The move comes as part of its strategy of enhancing the company's portfolio of premium outlets in thriving regions.

Scheduled to open in spring 2021, this 340,000-square-foot open air center is positioned on the southern side of the Creek Turnpike and west of the Arkansas River, and will feature high-quality designer and name-brand retailers. Particularly, it will offer a mix of options including fashion, accessories, footwear, athletic and fitness apparel, home décor, electronics as well as quick service dining.

The property will likely draw a high footfall as the Tulsa community is witnessing solid economic and population growth. The project will generate substantial construction and permanent jobs in the area, creating as many as 400 construction jobs, and 800 full and part-time jobs.

ABG, Simon, and Brookfield Partners for Forever 21 Acquisition – Feb 19, 2020

Authentic Brands Group (ABG), Simon Property and Brookfield Property Partners announced the acquisition of fast fashion retailer, Forever 21, which had filed for bankruptcy earlier. The companies have struck a partnership, under which ABG and Simon Property will each own 37.5%, and Brookfield will own 25% of the intellectual property and operating businesses.

Similar to that of the Aéropostale's move earlier, the latest efforts are expected to aid Forever 21 stores continue operating across the United States and international territories. This LA-born brand is a global fashion retailer of women's, men's, and kid's clothing, accessories, and footwear, as well as beauty.

Forever 21 is working with several landlords to continue store operations in key regions and will convert its preent, owned store operations in Central America, South America, Mexico, the Philippines, and the Caribbean to a licensed partnership model. Moreover, the new ownership group will engage in working with present and new partners to grow Forever 21 across key territories, including South America, Western and Eastern Europe, China, Southeast Asia, Middle East, and India.

Simon Property to Acquire Taubman Centers in $3.6B Deal – Feb 10, 2020

Simon Property Group has agreed to acquire Taubman Centers, in a deal valued at $3.6 billion. Simon Property will buy an 80% ownership stake in The Taubman Realty Group Limited Partnership ("TRG"). Simon Property will acquire all of Taubman common stock for $52.50 per share in cash. Additionally, the Taubman family will sell one-third of its ownership interest at the transaction price and remain a 20% partner in TRG.

TRG is engaged in the ownership, management and/or leasing of 26 super-regional shopping centers in the United States and Asia. It will continue being managed by the current executive team, under the leadership of Taubman chairman, president and chief executive officer, Robert S. Taubman, in association with Simon, the company noted.

For Simon Property, which expects to fund the total cash consideration of $3.6 billion with existing liquidity, the deal is expected to be at least 3% accretive to its FFO per share on an annualized basis, starting immediately upon consummation of the transaction.

For Taubman shareholders, this is a welcome move as the transaction price of $52.50 per share in cash denoted a 51% premium to Taubman Centers' closing price on Feb 7. Also, it represented a good 19% premium to total enterprise value, which includes debt and preferred equity.

TRG's capacity to invest in innovative retail environments for retailers and consumers will get a boost, helping the delivery of attractive shopping and entertainment experiences to consumers.

Subject to a number of approvals, including two-thirds of the outstanding Taubman voting stock and a majority of the outstanding Taubman voting stock not held by the Taubman family as well as other customary closing conditions, this transaction is expected to close in mid-2020. Notably, the Taubman family, representing around 29% of the outstanding Taubman voting stock, has already decided to vote in favor of the transaction.

Dividend Update
